Bomb blasts U.S. office in California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A bomb exploded outside a federal office building here early today, damaging a basement storage room and sending flames two stories high, police said.

They said another device, which appeared to be a bomb, was dismantled.

Police originally said there had been three bombs, two of which exploded. They said they only found one exploded bomb despite reports of two explosions being heard.

Police Sgt. Clyde Blount said firemen and police received an anonymous telephone call through a long-distance operator shortly before the explosion at 1:25 a.m. They said the caller made no demands or threats.

Blount said the explosive device was believed to be a pipe bomb and apparently was placed on the window sill outside the storage room. He said officers and fire equipment did not arrive until after the explosion.

The blast shattered a large window and caused extensive damage to the room, said fire inspector James Mahoney. He said damage was confined to the small room and no one was injured.

Flames soared up the outside of the gray stone building in Civic Center before firemen extinguished the blaze.

Blast rips New York ITT office

NEW YORK (AP) — A powerful explosion ripped through the executive offices for Latin American operations of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. in a midtown Manhattan skyscraper early today.

The blast blew out windows and caused extensive damage but there was no fire and no injuries. An anonymous caller telephoned the New York Post and claimed the "Weather underground" had attacked ITT.

In Rome, a small bomb was thrown at the office of ITT Standard S.A., the Italian subsidiary of the multinational conglomerate. The blast damaged two doors slightly.

An ITT spokesman in New York said the firm had found no connection between the two blasts. "There's no evidence to link the two situations," said David Kiernan.

In Manhattan, the explosion occurred on the ninth floor of the 41-story ITT American Building on Madison Avenue near 50th Street. Police had earlier received a telephoned warning that a bomb would go off inside the ITT building.

But the caller did not specify which building and police units went to the corporation's world headquarters nearby on Park Avenue. They were there when the blast occurred around 2:40 a.m.

Boyle now off critical list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former union boss W. A. "Tony" Boyle was taken off the critical list today at George Washington University Hospital.

The hospital said he continued to improve and his personal physician, Dr. Milton Gusack, said he was alert and talking.

He remained in the intensive care unit, where his condition was listed as serious.

weaken the United States in negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The 48-36 vote Thursday night was the third this week on reducing the American force overseas. On Wednesday a 40 per cent cutback was adopted tentatively only to be overturned on a subsequent vote.

Republican Sens. John G. Tower of Texas and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina argued that a reduction would make it difficult for President Nixon to negotiate for troop cuts by both the United States and the Soviet Union.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., chief sponsor of the compromise cutback, said the amendment would allow the President to decide where to make withdrawals — and that most could come from Asia and the Pacific without disturbing the NATO force in Europe.

The amendment, which now must go to the House where three similar attempts have failed, orders a reduction of 40,000 troops by next June 30, and another 70,000 by Dec. 31, 1975.

The reductions would be made from the 487,000 landbased troops stationed in 34 countries. Sea-based forces are exempt from the cutback.

The Humphrey amendment was tied to the $21-billion military procurement authorization bill for the current fiscal year.

Debate on the bill was to continue today.

Earlier Thursday the Senate rejected 49 to 47 an attempt to block acceleration of the Trident missile-firing submarine system.

The Pentagon lobbied heavily for the Trident speedup. But opponents claimed money would be saved by delaying work on nine Trident sub systems until the first one is in operation.

Mondale studies presidential bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale says he is in "a very preliminary stage" of a possible 1976 presidential bid but that he will have to decide on running sooner than other potential candidates.

Mondale said in an interview he doubts he can wait as late as 1975 before making a decision.

"I'm not well known so I would have to make a decision earlier than some others," the 45-year-old Minnesota Democrat said. "Without getting into names, there are some people who are quite well-known nationally."

Mondale said he thinks Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts "is clearly the dominant possibility at this time" for the Democratic nomination.

Mondale said his effort, which has received encouragement from fellow Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, is in "a discussion stage."

"I have been traveling around the country some, making speeches, mostly talking with political leaders about how they view the whole matter of the Democratic party," he added.

He expects to step up speechmaking through the 1974 election but said he has hired no additional staff, raised no money and launched no research on either issues or the mechanics of a presidential bid.

Humphrey said in a separate interview that he has assured Mondale "I'm not going to run" but that he is keeping his options open in the event the 1976 Democratic Convention becomes deadlocked.

Mondale said the fall of 1973, three years before the 1976 election, isn't too early to make initial moves and added that he has decided to be frank about a possible candidacy.

"Typically," he said, "candidates who are running go through this period of shyness and coyness where they pretend they're not doing what they're doing."

"I decided that that is artificial," he said. "The public might just as well know and has a right to know what you're up to."

He said he has received both encouragement and discouragement in his travels about the country. He said he has sought no commitments and conceded "I do not see any landslide for Walter Mondale."

State park survey set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources announced today a statewide survey aimed at determining what facilities and services Ohioans would like to have improved or installed at their state parks.

Director William B. Nye said "we hope to determine exactly what the people of Ohio want." He said this will be the first time Ohioans have been asked to take part in such a program, and said it is part of Gov. John J. Gilligan's efforts to involve citizens in governmental decisions.

He said the survey will include mailing of eight-page questionnaires to 33,000 Ohio households. The households were selected by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, he said, "on a statistically accurate random basis."

Nye urged citizens to cooperate, noting that "the 33,000 households will be responding on behalf of 11 million Ohioans and the more responses we get, the more valid our survey will be."

He said it takes about 30 minutes to answer the questions on the survey.

Arab terrorists grab hostages

VIENNA (AP) — Two Arab gunmen commandeered a train with Soviet Jews at the Austrian-Czechoslovak border today and killed one railway official and injured two other men, officials reported.

The Arabs then took nine hostages, including several Jews, got into a car and drove to the Vienna airport. Police surrounded the car, parked near a Spanish airliner, and began negotiating with the terrorists.

The train was taking the Jews from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, to Vienna for transfer to the Schonau processing center prior to their emigration to Israel. It was commandeered at Marchegg, 28 miles east of Vienna. The number of Jews aboard the train was not known.

Discontent seen with General Telephone pact

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 2,800 telephone operators, clerks and installer-repairmen have until Oct. 3 to accept or reject new contract proposals of the General Telephone Co.

At least one union local president says he'll ask members to vote against the pact, which offers a 25-cent-per-hour wage hike and increased fringe benefits.

Acceptance of a new two-year contract was announced Thursday by Communication Workers of America bargainers, signaling an end to a bitter 75-day strike.

The strike, affecting telephone service in 77 Ohio counties, was marred by incidences of violence and widespread vandalism.

The new agreement reflected demands by workers for bigger salaries, more hospital coverage and vacation time, and a requirement that all represented employees pay union dues.

But Athens local president Sam Eblen said Thursday he thinks the package could've been plumper.

"I don't think we gained a thing since September ninth," said Eblen, a member of the union's bargaining team.

Union officials had called a press conference Sept. 9, reportedly to announce an end to the dispute, only to say later a "last minute hitch" had forced a change in plans.

That hitch was nonacceptance of the contract by international union leaders, company spokesmen said later.

Eblen said he thought workers got a better deal in the first contract.

The two contracts are the same except that the later one cuts down on grievance time payments by the company, Eblen said.

"I'm not going to vote for this contract. And I'm going to urge my

Gas stations closing in price protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Service station operators in western New York State were set to start a weekend protest shutdown today as disgruntled dealers across the nation awaited action by the Cost of Living Council on easing of Phase 4 price controls.

About 500 gasoline retailers in the Buffalo, N.Y., area planned to close from noon today until Monday morning to demonstrate opposition to the controls.

Some 225 gas dealers began an indefinite shutdown Thursday night in northern Indiana while hundreds of service stations stayed closed in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Station operators were awaiting an announcement by the Cost of Living Council on ceiling price increases. One source close to the council said the raise would be 1 or 2 cents a gallon.

Council Director John T. Dunlop confirmed Wednesday the council will approve price increases this week. The change came after President Nixon said he wanted the hike this week.

Many dealers, however, have said they also want new rules that will allow them to pass on to customers any future hikes in wholesale prices. The council was said to be considering such changes.

"If they come out with anything less than a pass-through of the wholesale cost and an increase in the ceiling price of one cent, they haven't done anything," said Charles Binsted, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers.

"Anything less than that is going to be looked at with great disfavor by the nation's dealers," Binsted said Thursday.

The Gulf Oil Co. announced Thursday it was increasing its wholesale gasoline prices another one-half cent a gallon. The raise followed a hike of nine-tenths of a cent per gallon Sept. 19.

Several hundred Houston service station dealers agreed at a meeting Thursday night to close their stations next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to protest the Phase 4 ceiling prices.

The Indiana shutdown involved about 225 gasoline retailers in Elkhart, South Bend and Mishawaka who voted to close indefinitely. The leader of the group, Tom Reamer, said dealers would stay shut until they "get a fair shake" from the government.

In the St. Louis area, the Service Station Dealers of Missouri said the six-day shutdown was about 75 per cent effective as it got under way Thursday.

In Seattle, the Automobile Club of Washington warned that as many as 90 per cent of the gas stations in the Puget Sound area may shut down this weekend if the Cost of Living Council does not ease the price controls enough.

Meanwhile, many Michigan gas stations were expected to be closed or open for only limited hours this weekend in Michigan because of tight gasoline supplies.

No station closings seen here

Service stations and bulk plants around Fayette County are in about the same predicament as far as gasoline shortages are concerned as they were at this time a month ago.

The Record-Herald learned through a spot check Friday that service stations in Washington C.H. and the surrounding area have no immediate plans for completely closing their operations, either because of a shortage or as a price protest.

Most of the gasoline dealers here indicated that they are experiencing no trouble in obtaining gasoline supplies. But the dealers pointed out that they are only receiving their normal monthly allotments and no more.

The majority of the service stations here have curtailed their working hours, some closing an hour earlier at night. Other dealers have been closing their stations on Saturday and Sunday.

Despite a number of closings across the nation the gasoline dealers here said they are not receiving more fuel supplies. None of the stations here are rationing gasoline to their customers.

ONE OPERATOR was optimistic about the future. He said "the real pinch was last summer . . . that was when I cut down by closing an hour earlier every day and on Saturday afternoon and Sunday." The dealer said he had to let some of his help go to reduce expenses and added, "I'm happy the way it is now. I like these shorter hours."

He commented that a representative of his supplier told him that "if you want to go back to the old schedule and put on more attendants, we'll get you the gasoline."

Another dealer here said he expects a shortage in anti-freeze within the next two months. "If it's not one thing it's another," he commented.

Red cosmonauts report all going well on orbital trip

MOSCOW (AP) — Everything is reported going well with the Soviet Union's first manned space flight in two years.

"The mood is cheerful and we feel as if we were in the training system," cosmonaut Vasily Lazarev told ground controllers after Soyuz 12 was fired into earth orbit Thursday.

Only a two-day flight was planned, and the spaceship will return to earth Saturday, the Russians announced.

Tass said Lazarev, the mission commander, and flight engineer Oleg Makarov — both space rookies — were "feeling well, and the craft's on-board systems are functioning well."

Lazarev, a 45-year-old lieutenant colonel, is a doctor and test pilot who was a backup crewman for a 1964 Voskhod mission and the 1970 Soyuz 9 shot. Tass said Makarov, 40, "took part in development of spacecraft" and has been on the cosmonaut team since 1966.

The mission was launched from the Baikonur space center on the plains of Kazakhstan in central Asia just two days after the three American Skylab 2 astronauts returned from a record 59½-day flight.

The cosmonauts' mission includes "comprehensive checking and testing of improved flight systems and further testing of the process of manual and automatic control in various flight conditions," Tass said.

Their spacecraft is an improved version of Soyuz 11, in which three cosmonauts died in June 1971 when its hatch failed to close properly after undocking from the orbiting Salyut 1 space lab.

Tass said the cosmonauts also would make spectroscopic studies of various parts of the earth to obtain "data for the solution of economic problems." It did not elaborate.

A Soyuz craft is expected to take part in a 1975 space mission with an American Apollo vehicle, and some U.S. scientists expect a successful long Soyuz flight before the joint mission takes place.

Heavy rains bring floods to Southland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms lingered over much of the midcontinent today and caused additional flooding from Texas to Missouri.

The persistent rains sent many streams over their banks in central and eastern Kansas, Missouri and parts of Oklahoma and Texas.

The Arkansas River at Hutchinson, Kan., crested five feet above its banks early today. The lower Missouri River was four feet over its banks at Waverly, Mo.

Heavy rains fell on the Plains through Thursday night.

Kansas, still cleaning up from tornadoes early in the week, was faced with serious flooding. Some residents of the flood plains of the Solomon, Saline and Smoky Hill rivers in north-central and eastern Kansas have evacuated their homes.

The Chickasaw River in Oklahoma was five feet above flood stage and still rising. Fourteen to 15 families in Blackwell, Okla., were expected to evacuate their homes and others might follow, officials said.

More than 1,000 persons fled their homes in the San Antonio, Tex., area Thursday as heavy rains blocked roads and five feet of water surrounded about 80 homes.

The high water at Seguin, about 40 miles northeast of San Antonio, and at nearby New Braunfels was said to rival the devastating 1971 floods of the Guadalupe River.

Several deaths Thursday in Texas were directly or indirectly attributed to the weather. One San Antonio woman drowned when caught in a swift current of water as she walked on a street near her home. Five others died in traffic accidents in heavy rains.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 37 at Casper, Wyo., to 81 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Hostages freed in escape bid

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Twelve women prisoners and a matron were released unharmed early today, 5½ hours after they were seized during an escape attempt at city jail, authorities said.

"They threatened me. They threatened to blow my brains out. They threatened to cut my head off," sobbed the matron, Betty Scott.

Officials said the incident started shortly after midnight when seven male inmates overpowered two guards.

Cambodians land

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian forces landed on an island near the mouth of the Tonle Sap lake and liberated 344 villagers from Khmer Rouge control, the government reported today.

The indictment said LaFatch, using information he had gathered by talking to Ohio Commerce Director Dennis Shaul, led John W. Vogel of Realty Nation Corp. to believe he could influence Commerce Department approval of a stock issuance the firm had planned.

"I am gratified my confidence in Dennis Shaul has been vindicated by a Justice Department investigation which has extended over five months," Gov. John J. Gilligan said.

The governor, in a prepared statement, said Shaul had been subjected "to a particularly vicious attack in some segments of the public media."

Realty National needed commerce department approval to put $10 million of stock on the market. It wanted the money to finance expansions of its Christopher Inn Hotel in downtown Columbus.

Alerted by Vogel, the FBI raided LaFatch's Miami, Fla., home April 27 and confiscated $50,000, which allegedly had been paid in two separate payoffs.

PROPERTY RECOVERED—Two tires, believed to have been taken during a burglary at Knisley Pontiac early Friday were recovered from an auto owned by Walter D. Aills, Jr., who was arrested a short time after the incident. A search warrant was obtained after Aills refused to give permission for the vehicle to be searched. County Prosecutor Otis Hess accompanied Patrolmen Mike Stritenberger and Larry Hott to Bell's Shell where the car had been impounded.

Burglary charge filed after theft of tires

City police arrested Walter D. Aills Jr., 1218 Rawlings St., Friday morning shortly after receiving a call from a private citizen that someone had been seen leaving Knisley Pontiac, 1159 Columbus Ave., carrying two automobile tires.

Sgt. Luther Anderson and Patrolman Larry Hott were dispatched to the scene at approximately 3:50 a.m. Anderson checked the building while Hott talked to the caller to get further information.

The witness gave a description of the intruder.

Hott found Aills walking along Blackstone Street, and as the cruiser approached he fled. Aills was discovered hiding behind a house on Temple Street and was arrested.

When he refused to give the police permission to search his car, officers obtained a search warrant from Judge Rollo Marchant to enable them to recover two tires, believed to be the ones taken, from the back seat of Aills' car.

Aills has been charged with burglary and larceny.

Garrison acquitted of bribery charge

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "Oh, ye of little faith," Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said to newsmen as he emerged from court cleared of a charge of taking bribes to protect gambling interests.

A U.S. District Court jury, after deliberating for 15 hours Thursday rejected what U.S. Atty. Gerald Gallinghouse called an airtight case.

Two pinball executives tried with Garrison were acquitted of giving bribes.

Garrison, 52, and the executives were charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice. They were accused of giving or taking bribes to protect illegal pinball machine gambling, once a multimillion-dollar business here.

Garrison called the verdict a vindication of his claim he was framed in revenge for insisting that the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas was a conspiracy involving the "warfare sector of the United States government."

He said the jury of nine men and three women "recognized a government attempt to accomplish retribution against an individual who had frequently criticized the federal government," he said.

"That's ridiculous and ludicrous, and he knows it," snapped Gallinghouse. Garrison handled his own defense after his two lawyers withdrew, claiming differences over how the defense should be conducted.

The strategy enabled Garrison to stand before the jury at his persuasive best, including a three-hour final argument at the end of the six-week trial, without exposing himself to cross-examination.

Much of the case was based on what the prosecution called secretly recorded conversations between Garrison and a man he considered to be his best friend, Pershing Gervais. Garrison claimed the tapes were faked.

Gervais said he carried four $1,000 payoffs to the district attorney, with each visit closely supervised by Internal Revenue Service agents.

Blame pilot error in crash fatal to 45 persons in 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sabotage played no part in the Chicago airline crash that killed 45 persons, including the wife of convicted Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt, the National Transportation Safety Board says.

The safety board said Thursday the probable cause of the crash was "the captain's failure to exercise positive flight management." This resulted in the plane losing airspeed and going into a stall, the board concluded.

Chicago legal researcher Sherman Skolnick had claimed the plane was sabotaged because, he said, 12 of the passengers were directly linked to Watergate.

He said some of those passengers carried documents that linked President Nixon and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell with Watergate.

Hunt's wife had $10,000 in $100 bills in her purse when she died.

The United Air Lines crash occurred during a routine landing approach at Chicago's Midway Airport last December.

Among those killed were Rep. George W. Collins, D-Ill., and CBS newswoman Michele Clark.

The board said it found no evidence foul play or sabotage was involved in the crash. It also said it found no evidence "of any medical condition that would have incapacitated the crew or of any interference with the crew in the performance of their duties." The board noted that autopsies showed traces of cyanide and carbon monoxide in the bloodstream of some crash victims but added:

"The finding of elevated levels of carbon monoxide and cyanide in some of the victims was consistent with death due to smoke inhalation in the conditions existing during the post-crash fire."

The two chemicals are formed when wool, cotton, paper or plastic is burned. Traces of the chemicals have been found in bloodstreams of other air accident victims in the past.

The board said the aircraft was airworthy at the time of the accident. It said the captain's call for his assistants to read out a checklist while the plane was in its approach meant the first officer could not monitor the airspeed and rate of descent.

The board said records show a stall warning device went off 20 seconds before the plane crashed. It said the captain attempted several maneuvers to pick up speed but apparently forgot to retract moveable sections of the wing that facilitate descent.

Other counts are based on extortion in violation of interstate commerce, using the telephone and crossing state lines allegedly to work the scheme.

U. S. Atty. William Milligan said LaFatch's attorney had voluntarily agreed to appear at the arraignment, probably within the next two weeks. He has not been arrested.

Milligan said the case probably would go to trial within three to eight months.

Gilligan said the indictment supported the findings of his own probe "which concluded that no employee or official of state government was involved in the alleged bribe attempt."

The results of Gilligan's probe have yet to be released. An aide, Robert Tenenbaum, indicated the report would be made public within the next two days.

Skylab crew takes day off

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Back home and feeling great after their record space flight, the Skylab 2 astronauts today enjoyed their first day off in more than two months.

Returning space heroes normally plunge right into debriefing sessions. But except for brief medical exams, Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were told to take it easy. They had been away from earth a long time.

They will start 15 days of intense debriefings Saturday, discussing with space agency experts all aspects of Skylab 2's 59½-day orbital journey.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma left the recovery carrier New Orleans in San Diego, Calif., and flew home Thursday night.

As their jet taxied to a stop at nearby Ellington Air Force Base, the men's wives drove up in an antique 1929 car bearing signs which read "59 days or bust" and "Hooray, we made it."

The women wore long flowing dresses and bonnets that were fashionable a century ago, and immediately drew long laughs from the astronauts. The couples then embraced.

Still feeling the effects of their long exposure to weightlessness, the spacemen walked steadily but slowly to a platform to address about 500 persons, most of them space workers.

Bean, the Skylab 2 commander, thanked Johnson Space Center director Dr. Christopher C. Kraft for a decision made on the fifth day of the flight not to bring the astronauts home.

A serious leak had developed in a steering rocket of the Apollo ferry ship, but after consulting with ground experts Kraft decided the spacemen could stay aloft. A rescue rocket was readied at Cape Kennedy, Fla., in case the Apollo systems deteriorated.

"That was a tough decision he had to make, and it turned out just right," Bean said.

Garriott said the mission had "days of adventure, days of hard work and there was even time for a little fun."

He said the mission belonged not only to the men, but also to millions of Americans and the thousands of space workers who made it possible.

Lousma told the crowd, "I thank the American people for their spirit that makes a flight like this possible."

With Lousma at the wheel, the astronauts and their wives rode down the runway in the antique car, laughing and joking. They switched to limousines for the trip to their nearby homes.

Raney denies buying gun from guard

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Raney, 23, a Lucasville penitentiary inmate, has denied that a gun he used to kill a penitentiary guard July 24 was sold to him by another guard now on trial.

Raney contradicted earlier testimony to a grand jury that Ronalde Pratt, 27, a guard, sold him the gun he used in the murder of Arthur Sprouse, 41.

Scioto County Prosecutor Everett Burton, who called Raney as a state's witness, Thursday was allowed by Judge Richard Canter to question Raney about his grand jury testimony.

Raney's testimony came in the second day of the trial of Pratt on charges of smuggling a gun into the penitentiary and aiding Raney in an attempt to escape.

Raney testified Thursday he got the gun from another inmate.

Several other state witnesses traced the possession of the gun before it got into the hands of Raney. Billy Fagan of Portsmouth said he sold the gun to Pratt at a bar in Portsmouth.

Fagan said on two occasions after the killing of the guard he had conversations with Pratt in which Pratt told him to not say anything about the gun.

The state rested its case Thursday and the defense began calling witnesses.

Murder conviction upheld by court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first degree murder conviction of a Cincinnati man was allowed to stand today by the State Supreme Court.

Russell Lee Simmons was indicted in the bludgeoning slaying of John W. Dockery, 72, on Nov. 19, 1970, during a robbery in which two men participated.

The Hamilton County Court of Appeals affirmed the trial court's sentence of life imprisonment. Simmons' counsel claimed the jury at his trial was improperly instructed.

Space commander dies

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Col. Harold R. Turner, 75, known as the "granddaddy of Cape Canaveral" and the first commander of the White Sands Missile Range, died Thursday. He commanded the range in 1945-47 during the time when German scientists began experiments with V-2 rockets captured during World War II.

Clouds increased and thickened over Ohio Thursday night, bringing the predicted rain out of a cold front moving slowly from Michigan into the state's northern counties.

A few isolated thundershowers spread into the central counties Friday morning but precipitation amounts were rather light.

Under the heavy cloud blanket temperatures Friday morning lowered only into the 60s and 70s.

Showers, rain and clouds will keep temperatures on the cool side Friday with readings ranging from the 60s and 70s in the north to the 70s and 80s south of the cold front. The precipitation is forecasted to continue into Saturday and Sunday. Night time temperature readings will remain in the 60s.

There is a chance of rain in Ohio Sunday, followed by clearing skies Monday and Tuesday. Highs all three days will be in the 70s and lows will be in the 50s.

Jewish leader Beckwith target?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Self-professed segregationist Byron De La Beckwith has been arrested for driving into the city from Mississippi with a ticking time bomb and other weapons.

A local newspaper and radio station both quoted federal sources today as saying A.I. "Bee" Botnick, head of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League in New Orleans, was Beckwith's apparent target.

They said Botnick apparently went into hiding after learning of the Beckwith's alleged plans.

Beckwith, 52, was tried twice, but not convicted, of the 1963 murder of civil rights worker Medgar Evers.

Police intelligence officers would neither confirm nor deny that Botnick was Beckwith's intended victim.

Leaders of the city's Jewish community were unable to provide information on Botnick's whereabouts.

It was not clear what might have provoked an attack on Botnick.

Botnick was reported to be working for the Anti-Defamation League in Mississippi in recent weeks.

Plan to put dye into Mad River

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency will put a harmless red dye into the Mad River the week of Oct. 1 to try to determine how fast contaminants flow downstream.

The department will take samples at most road crossings along the 63-mile extent of the study.

Similar studies have been made on the Sandusky and Great Miami rivers.

State worker's reinstatement ordered by court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former Department of Transportation employee laid off from his job in 1972 had his reinstatement upheld today by Ohio's Supreme Court.

The state appealed from a decision of an appeal court that reversed lower courts, thus ordering Robert D. Hawk of Portsmouth reinstated in his DOT Division Nine job as a member of a survey crew.

Counsel for Hawk contended his layoff was a result of politics under a system "that is a sham and is merely a coverup of a method to exclude employees of the opposing political party from employment."

Individual Soviet dissenters remain active

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Kremlin evidently won a victory over the voices of dissent in the success of Case 24, but the cost may yet prove to have been heavier than it reckoned.

Case 24 was the code name applied by the KGB, or secret police, to an operation that was a key part of the most sustained official assault on dissent since the Stalin era.

A wave of searches, arrests and trials begun early in 1972 was well advanced by spring when the KGB bore down heavily on a special target: the Chronicle of Current Events.

The Chronicle, a celebrated "samizdat," or self-publication, journal had appeared regularly every two months since April 1968 and was about to publish its 24th issue in April 1972. The journal, typewritten with carbon copies, circulated widely.

The KGB couldn't stop No. 24, nor could it prevent 25, 26 or 27 from appearing. But 27 was the last. Since last Oct. 15 no issue of the Chronicle has appeared.

"For several years the self-sacrificing Chronicle quenched a general and natural human thirst: to know what is going on," Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Nobel Prize writer, said in a recent interview. "It brought to the surface, from the deep abyss of ignorance, just a little, little part of our terrible history — and for that it has been destroyed and crushed with such thoroughness."

Solzhenitsyn, along with Andrei D. Sakharov, the nuclear physicist, and a few other stalwarts, represent the only real remaining challenge to the regime's repressions and have been targets of heavy attack and threats.

Clearly, the death of the Chronicle was a main goal of the official crackdown on restive intellectuals. The KGB closed the trap on the Journal with the arrest of Pyotr Yakir, a historian, and Viktor Krasin, an economist, both active in the civil rights movement.

Before he was taken to Lefortovo Prison for interrogation, Yakir confided to friends he would not be able to withstand the pressure and would tell them anything if they beat him.

Yakir's was a tragic story. In the Stalin purges of the 1930's, his father, a Red army commander, was executed. Because of its relationship to "an enemy of the people," the Yakir family was sent to a labor camp. Not until the brief "thaw" period under Nikita S. Khrushchev were the Yakirs freed. "Samizdat," which circulated many a now-celebrated work of writers unable to publish legally, put out Yakir's story too, an account called "Childhood in Prison" about his 14 years in the camp.

In the van of those protesting harsh treatment of intellectuals, Yakir in 1968 circulated a document warning that the regime under Leonid I. Brezhnev was restoring Stalinism, whereupon the KGB threatened both him and his daughter. Last year the bearded, sad-eyed Yakir, now 50, fell into the big KGB roundup net.

Indications were that he talked a good deal regarding names and operations of the Chronicle. A recently exiled dissenter said Yakir had been told he'd get an extra year's sentence for every edition that appeared. He drew only three years.

It had been obvious that the Yakir-Krasin trial was in reality the trial of the Chronicle and the whole rights movement. Yakir, according to the official Tass agency, was persuaded to testify that the movement didn't really exist but was an invention of a subversive organization "with the high-sounding name of 'Group in Defense of Human Rights.'" No foreign correspondents were permitted to attend the trial.

The Human Rights Committee was founded in November 1970 by Sakharov after a previous period of repressions. In association with Andrei Tverdokhlebov and Valery Chalidze, fellow physicists, his aim was to seek reform by legal means within the existing political framework. Other scientists joined and Solzhenitsyn, among others, became a "corresponding" member. The Chronicle circulated their pronouncements, which invariably reached Western hands.

The Kremlin silenced the Chronicle, but continued to be infuriated by luminaries like Sakharov and Solzhenitsyn.

Item: Sakharov summoned Western journalists to warn that detente on Soviet terms without democracy would simply liberate the Kremlin from problems it couldn't solve for itself and let it concentrate on strength so that eventually "the whole world would be disarmed and facing our uncontrollable bureaucratic apparatus."

Item: Writer Vladimir Maksimov made public a letter warning West Germany on detente with Moscow. It noted that "only the Almighty can know what price in blood we will pay for the diabolical games of the blockheads of modern diplomacy."

Item: Solzhenitsyn added to official pain by speaking bluntly to the Western press about pressures brought against him. He deplored what he saw as the timidity of the West in meeting "a sudden revival of barefaced barbarity" with nothing but concessions and smiles.

All this damaged the "peaceful coexistence" image Brezhnev, the Communist party chief, had tried to build. The response sounded ominous. Sakharov was warned officially he was being "harmful and frankly anti-Soviet." Solzhenitsyn was accused of serving "the evil designs of imperialism."

But the Kremlin remained eager for business designs with that same "imperialism," and now the voices of the dissidents had become so loud that the whole structure of the "peaceful coexistence" policy, so carefully built over several years, might be endangered.

In the United States, the National Academy of Sciences warned that any punishment of Sakharov could lead to curtailment of cooperation with American science — and technology is the name of the Brezhnev game so far as detente with Washington is concerned.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means committee and a powerful voice in matters relating to trade and tariffs, made it clear he remains opposed to trade concessions for Moscow while the Kremlin continues to harass "men of creativity and courage."

The American Psychiatric Association has declared that if the Soviet regime, as charged, uses mental hospitals for punishment purposes, that must be ended at once.

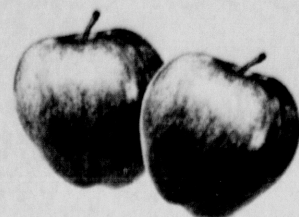

American writers are up in arms against liberalization of trade between the Soviet Union and the United States while the Kremlin holds so tight a rein on its cultural figures.

European figures are making their protest felt in high places. In West Germany, following the protests of some celebrated personalities in the cultural world, the government hinted that persecution of outstanding Soviet intellectuals for their views could have an impact on future Bonn-Moscow relations.

Clearly, then, the remaining strong voices of dissent, though they might not speak for a large number of people, still were able to present the Kremlin with an uncomfortable dilemma.

Should anything happen to such outstanding figures, the resultant protests might do irreparable damage to the Brezhnev policy.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Politics or a religion?

There is an Irish anecdote about New York politics in the 1890s.

Reilly, the precinct captain, drops in at the saloon for a beer and takes time out to pull a handkerchief and polish up his brass knuckles. O'Brien, the bartender, inquires "What's up?" "The Democratic county committee," replies Reilly, dropping the knuckle-dusters back in his pocket, "is having a unity meeting tonight."

This came to mind when I read the bad news from Washington that the Democratic National Committee is calling a mini-convention next year where all its internal problems are expected to be ironed out. Worse than that, a special Charter Commission is scheduled to present the assembled delegates with a distillation of the true Democratic faith.

FOR YEARS a number of liberals have been eagerly trying to convert the Democrats from a political party into a church. On the other side of the hill, the conservatives made a similar effort and, in 1964, succeeded. Despite the lesson of the Goldwater campaign, the Democratic militants continued and, of course, won the day with the nomination of George McGovern. However, unlike the Republicans, the Democrats have refused to evacuate Death Valley and are forging ahead toward another exercise in self-destruction.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Won't someone defend middle class?

When will the world discover there is no sense in trying to kill the middle class?

The Soviets and the Red Chinese managed to get rid of the "middle condition of men," the unforeseen result being that they are now dependent on wheat and technology from bourgeois countries.

Mexico solved its problems by permitting the middle class to refurbish itself as a constituent element of the so-called Party of Revolutionary Institutions.

Salvador Allende sought to impose socialism on the shopkeepers and truckdrivers of Chile, and is now a corpse because he assumed he had a mandate he never actually had.

Fidel Castro still manages to stay on top in Cuba, but his country has become parasitical on the Soviet Union, which in turn is asking the Capitalistic Occidental Oil Co. to develop its resources of natural gas.

As for the underdeveloped islands of the Caribbean, the ones that have been revolting against the middle-class tourist trade are in a most parlous condition. The murders on the island of St. Croix have so hurt the business of attracting tourists that the Virgin Islands governor, Dr. Melvin H. Evans, had to fly post-haste to New York to youth wing from locking them in an ideological straitjacket.

IN AN ODD SENSE, the British Labor Party is in the same bind as the Democrats. The farther left the locus of power in the party moves, the greater are the chances of its defeat in the electorate as a whole. Indeed, Labor leader Harold Wilson recently gave a quiet burial to some left-wing resolutions passed by the party's annual conference, particularly one calling for the nationalization of 21 industries.

On the Continent, the history of the German Social Democrats (SPD) is equally instructive. Until the late 50s, the SPD was essentially a sect, but then, in a remarkable conversion from religion to politics, it adopted a new program abandoning Marxism. Today Willy Brandt is plagued by his own McGovernites, who managed to pick up about a third of the seats on the SPD's national executive and are demanding a revival of the old-time religion.

Their biggest supporters are, of course, the Christian Democrats, who know that if the SPD regained its sectarian purity, the conservatives would be in power for the rest of the century.

With this in mind, I sometimes wonder who is really behind that Democratic Charter. A paranoid instinct says "CREEP," but then common sense intervenes. No one at CREEP had that much political savvy.

Charter comes from a group of scholars, the most notable being James MacGregor Burns, who have for years deplored the disorganized character of the American party system and argued for centralized organizations patterned on British and European parliamentary parties.

In Britain, the argument runs, the party adopts a program and enforces it on candidates — if the latter won't accept instruction, they get bounced off the ticket. The consequence of this fine, rational system is that the British voter, when he chooses among Conservatives, Laborites or Liberals, knows what he is selecting.

The interesting aspect of this position is that 25 years ago, when I first began arguing with Jim Burns about it, it made a great deal more sense than it does today. In the post-World War II period, British parties were highly organized: the Labor Party, for example, cleaned out a number of Members of Parliament because of their fellow-traveling with the Communists. But in the subsequent years, British parties have become far less tightly disciplined.

At the moment the Labor Party is bitterly divided over British membership in the Common Market, the Tories have a troublesome Powell faction, and the Liberals, who have recently been riding high, are desperately trying to prevent their try to explain the situation away to the travel agencies.

President Linden Pindling of the new nation of the Bahamas is discovering that the surly service supplied by some of his islanders to visitors is certainly not the best way to bring money into the government's exchequer.

WHILE THE BAHAMAS and the Virgin Islands are losing life-sustaining business, the island of Bermuda prospers by its refusal to bite the hand of the middle-class visitor that feeds it. It keeps the gamblers out, which means there is no shady money kicking around to corrupt local officials. It controls the number of visitors by permitting only three cruise ships to dock at one time, two at pier side in the harbor of Hamilton and one at St. George at the other end of the island.

It does not allow an overbuilding of hotels that might put an undue strain on the limited local bus and taxi traffic on roads where the scooter is king.

There should be a lesson in all this for islands that are seething against dependence on their one sure source of income. While St. Croix stagnates, the cruise ships that go from New York or Baltimore or Boston to Bermuda do well.

The Sea Venture, a Norwegian-owned cruise ship operated by Norwegian officers and Italian service personnel, makes seven-day trips from New York to Bermuda throughout the summer at 104 per cent of its rated "double occupancy." But even a cruise ship serving a sensible island which knows how to sell itself by making visitors comfortable has its troubles in an inflationary period.

The energy and beef crises are severe for the cruise business. A ship such as the Sea Venture can gross some $280,000 per seven-day voyage. But with oil and food prices what they are, it does well to stay a little ahead of the break-even point.

Its four Fiat diesel engines consume 80 tons of fuel every 24 hours at sea. The cost of fuel recently went up by ten dollars a ton, enough to add half a million dollars to the bill for a year of cruising.

Caterers' costs have gone up, too, and both the Norwegian and Italian unions are hard bargainers.

ON WEST INDIAN cruises, if a ship can hit Trinidad or one of the Dutch islands that store bunker oil, the fuel bill can be cut somewhat. But the Bermuda run has no such offset.

The U.S. is getting kicked around for allegedly exploiting the less fortunate nations. But Greeks and Norwegians own the cruise ships. A young Italian out of Genoa, working on a Norwegian-owned ship such as the Sea Venture, is able to save in seven years what it took his father 40 years to put aside.

Like the 19th century New England farm boys who made enough out of a few voyages to the West Indies to buy land of their own, young Italians get enough out of the sea in a short time to set up in business for themselves.

So who does the "exploiting"? It is the U.S. middle class that pays the bills for other people's successes.

And, as Chile's Allende should have known, it is the middle class everywhere that plays Atlas to the world.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I talked to a cattleman at the Farm Science Review and he said, "What did the market do today?" and I replied, "Lower."

He shook his head and said, "Well, it looks like they're doing it to us."

He was referring to government manipulation of livestock farming, resulting in what took place in livestock marketing this week. This same farmer and I then had speculated about the situation at the Buckeye Beef Show in July and what we feared has come to pass.

Putting it bluntly, livestock producers have taken a beating this week and as we look back the only consolation they have is that the situation would be worse than it is if the industry had not made the innovative move to launch into custom slaughtering during the freeze.

The continual drop in livestock prices this week is a bitter pill to swallow when the producer realizes that it was carefully planned. The administration promised the boycotting-consumers lower meat prices and it deliberately set about to do the job.

It took planning, time and some strong-arming but the job was done. The sad part is that it was done without regard to the short-term harm they were inflicting on the livestock farmers and the long-term harm they were inflicting on the business.

Livestock farmers are not happy, and this will naturally effect their decisions to produce in the future. The best thing that can happen right now, for the good of all concerned, is that the retailers will finally start passing on the lower prices to consumers and sell out the low priced product to meat-starved consumers at an unprecedented rate.

This will empty the channels of cheap meat and re-create the demand that will be necessary to stabilize prices again and restore confidence in livestock farmers to put in feeders and start building toward a future market.

This will only be done if government rein — forces faith and confidence in farmers by pledging a "hands off" attitude toward the farming industry. Until they do this, they're going to find it difficult to encourage farmers to engage in "all out" production that economists say is so necessary to our rapidly expanding economy.

Stay with your boat or canoe in the event it capsizes, says the division of watercraft of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. Rescue planes and boats can more easily locate the accident by looking for a boat rather than for individuals, and the boater who tries to swim to shore greatly increases the risk of drowning.

Another View

Hal Boyle . . . 30 years of column-writing

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty years isn't much in the life of a mountain or a Methuselah, but it is quite a chunk out of the span of an ordinary man.

After three decades of doing anything, he is likely to want to pause for a deep breath, and review what he has accomplished.

That's the landmark peak — or is it a rutted ravine? — where I stand right now. I have been writing a newspaper column for 30 years this month. Leaning upon my hoe for a moment in this prose vineyard, I try to see what all this tilling has amounted to.

Judging it purely in terms of quantity, it isn't unimpressive. The more than 7,600 columns I have written in the last 30 years total almost four million words, slightly more than four times the life output of William Shakespeare.

I do not mean by this comparison to belittle the Bard. Touch typing might not have helped his style at all.

What I would rather ponder is what effect my four million words have had upon the human race. In sum, I am afraid, very little.

I haven't freed mankind noticeably of its ancient sinwar, greed, poverty and ingratitude, on the other hand, have I been able to introduce mankind to a new form of innocent pleasure, particularly one that would cheer the lot of the middle-aged and the elderly.

Of course, this failure isn't altogether my fault. I can say with some justification that if mankind had simply heeded my advice, it would be in a helluva sight better shape than it is now. But who can get anybody's ear today with sound advice? Neither scolding columnists nor scolding parents. The public is but a vaster child.

In fairness to myself, however, I would like to point out a few of my achievements that have not been entirely overlooked. Did I not defend motherhood when others were blaming it for the population explosion? Was I not endlessly industrious in pointing out the continuing menace of poisonous snakes? When others were jeering women's liberation, was I not foremost in proclaiming the right of ladies to smoke cigars in public?

Brief be those withered laurels on my brow, I claim them as my own.

Although it is hard to catalogue what I accomplished in 30 years at the typewriter, it is much easier to list what those years did to me.

First, they robbed me of four-fifths of my hair and three-fourths of my teeth.

Second, they enlarged my hatred of ignorance, stupidity, falsehood and aimless malice.

Third, they eradicated my juvenile cynicism and replaced it with an abiding faith in the worth of most people.

Fourth, they flowered my heart with wonder at all the wounded and wonderful things that happen in this wonderful but wounded world.

All in all, writing a column for 30 years is pretty much like shoveling coal in hell: the most you can hope for is to make everybody feel just a little bit warmer.

Good drinking water is a must for poultry.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Neighbors lose sleep to chained dog

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors just returned from a two-week vacation and I hope they had a good time because now I need one.

They left their dog CHAINED in the front yard! Another neighbor agreed to feed him daily, which was the only time the dog was quiet. The rest of the time he barked.

The first night, my husband got up at 4 a.m. to ask the owners to please take the dog inside, only to find there was no one home! The next day we found out the dog owners would be gone for two weeks! We nearly flipped.

Abby, if they couldn't find someone to keep the dog, they should have put it in a kennel.

They are home now, thank heavens, but what do you think of people who would keep the whole neighborhood up with a barking dog for two weeks?

NERVES ON END

DEAR NERVES: What happened to you shouldn't happen to a dog. And what happened to that dog shouldn't happen to a dog, either. You should have immediately notified your local humane society.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your reply to the girl who resented having a male physician give her a breast and pelvic examination. She said she wanted to remain chaste for her husband. You said an examination of that kind would in no way violate her chastity.

I disagree with you. I am no prude, but I place a high value on the privacy of my body, and I do not care to share it with anyone other than the man I marry. A male physician is no different from any other man, and I wonder how many husbands would allow their wives to go to a male gynecologist if they knew how intimately their wives would be touched and examined.

I have heard the argument that male doctors see hundreds of female patients a month, so a woman doesn't have to feel ashamed, but since when does frequency alone justify an action?

There is only one female physician in Terre Haute, and I go to her for my annual physical. I feel strongly that we women have a right to protect our intimacy, and should not be treated like children by male physicians.

P.J.

DEAR P.J.: It is indeed your right to select a female physician if you wish, but a male gynecologist has about as much erotic feelings while examining female patients as an electrician has when he's looking for a loose connection.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new one for you. Our son wants to be married this Christmas, and something has come up which prompts me (his father) to ask your advice.

When our son and his girl friend decided on a wedding date, they immediately told the bride's parents of their intentions. To their surprise, her parents said they were not interested in funding the affair. My son became upset and decided to go ahead and have a wedding even if he had to pay for it himself.

Our question: Should the bride's parents be invited or not? And if we invite them, should they be accorded all the honors and privileges of the bride's parents?

We, the groom's family, say no. Our future daughter-in-law says she wants her parents to get the full treatment even though they aren't paying for anything.

What is your opinion?

GROOM'S FATHER

DEAR FATHER: If the bride's parents are not funding the wedding because they have no funds, and your son is willing to foot the bill, then they should be given the full treatment. If they refuse to finance the wedding because they disapprove of the marriage, you may not have to worry about their presence at all. Arrange for a meeting with them and get the facts.

Marriage vows exchanged in St. Colman

Miss Martha Pero became the bride of Robert Talbott at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 20. The Rev. Fr. Richard Connelly performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar with vases of yellow and dark red mums, in St. Colman Catholic Church. The pews were marked with gold ribbon and fall leaves.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pero of Snowhill Rd. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Talbott of Powell are the parents of the bridegroom.

Dan VanDyke presented a one-half hour of nuptial organ music.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white delustered polyester satin A-line dress with neckline and cuffs of applique lace and seed pearls and full sleeves gathered into wide cuffs. The deep pleat in the back fell into a chapel length train. Her mantilla veil of silk illusion was edged in lace over a satin headpiece. She carried a cascade of yellow, red and gold mums with Mexican wood roses.

Mrs. Joseph Del Tedesco of Arlington, Va., sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a rose-orange crepe formal length dress with empire waist trimmed with floral braid, full gathered skirt and long full sleeves with braid at the cuffs. She carried a single orange rose.

The bridesmaid, Miss Susie Pero, and junior bridesmaids, Dedee and Kitty Pero, all sisters of the bride, wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor. The bridesmaid wore a gold crepe dress and carried a single yellow rose. The junior bridesmaids wore multi-colored floral chiffon dresses of gold and orange, with empire waists, long full gathered skirts and long full sleeves gathered at the wrists. They each carried a fireside basket filled with yellow, red and gold mums.

Dick Talbott of Columbus, brother of the groom, served as best man. Gene Talbott, of Columbus, another brother, was the usher.

Mrs. Pero chose for her daughter's wedding an oriental long princess style gown of orange, gold and black cotton satin with high collar, and a corsage of yellow and bronze mums and small wood flowers. The groom's mother wore a Thai emerald green silk gown with high collar, princess style slit-skirt with sash trimmed with gold fringe. She, too, wore a corsage of yellow and bronze mums and wood flowers.

Mrs. W.W. Montgomery, Austin, Tex., grandmother of the bride, wore a similar corsage.

A wedding dinner took place at the Terrace Lounges following the ceremony. The bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake topped with white bells and trimmed with yellow and orange roses encircled by greenery.

Roscoe Village topic for DKG meeting

Fifty four members of the Delta Kappa Gamma assembled at the Terrace Lounge for a dinner-meeting Monday evening. Mrs. Lee Mossbarger gave the invocation preceding the dinner. Miss Helen Hutson, president, conducted a brief business meeting.

During the meeting, Miss Jane Durant, a retired teacher and charter member of Delta Kappa Gamma, was honored. A tribute to her long teaching career, and a thumb-nail sketch of her life was written and presented by Mrs. Ralph Child.

Mrs. Pat Brown, public relations director for Roscoe Village Foundation, a restored canal town on the Ohio-Erie Canal in Coshocton, Ohio, was guest speaker. She was introduced by Mrs. Karl Harper, program chairman. Her topic was "Roscoe Village Restoration," and her lecture was illustrated with slides depicting the history and progress of Roscoe Village. Mrs. Brown was accompanied by Mrs. Sandy Gintner, her assistant. Both wore dresses of 1830 vintage.

Mrs. Brown has held her position since Oct., 1970, and was a free-lance writer and dramatist prior to her association with the project. She has experience in amateur theatre, including theatre-in-the-round, both on stage and behind the scenes. She is a member of the Ohio Poetry Society, and received an award for her poem "Tomboy" in 1969.

She told of how the arrival of the first canal boat in 1830, the Monticella, signified the birth of a new era for the little town of Roscoe, formerly named Caldersburg. It was the fourth largest wheat-depot in Ohio. Buildings that once housed businesses shipping on the canal still contain shops which have been restored and gardens.

Canal rides on the Monticello II towed by horses provide a scenic trip on the canal. Trolley rides to triple locks are available to tourists. Gift shops are also nearby and other historic sites. The Village is open all year, with no admission fee.

Get-acquainted party held

The Zeta Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held a get-acquainted party in the home of Mrs. Jim Dunn, Staunton.

A German theme was used in the games and refreshments.

Winners of prizes were Mrs. Jeff Thompson, Mrs. Danny Crawford and Mrs. Jim Coldiron.

An open meeting is planned for Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jeff Pollard.

Guests and members present were Mrs. Gary Roush, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Bill Woods, Mrs. Dan Montgomery, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Dale Wilson, Mrs. Dale Lowe, Mrs. Robert Clary, Mrs. Roger Snyder, Mrs. Michael Riggilo, Mrs. Chuck Bowersox, Mrs. Ernie Gettelfinger, Mrs. Frank Giacomini, Mrs. Roger Pemberton, Mrs. Rick Kelley, Mrs. Coldiron, Mrs. Jud Thompson, Mrs. Skip Hamilton and Mrs. Fred Pitzer.

FTA selects new leaders

By JULIA FOSTER

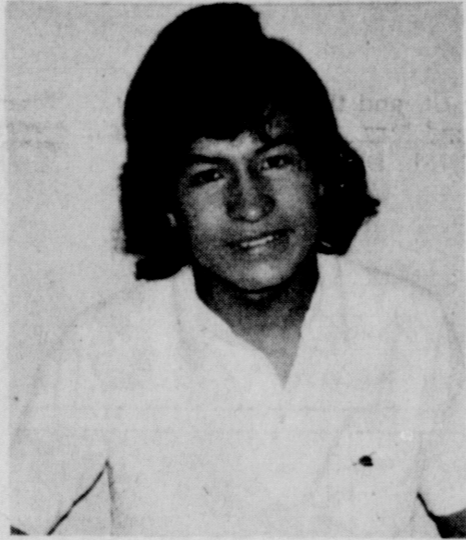

Future Teachers of America is an educational organization for high school students who are planning to be teachers or in some way work with young children following graduation. The organization also gives the student a better understanding of how teachers feel.

The Future Teachers of America chapter at WSHS installed new officers at a potluck dinner held recently in the high school cafeteria. Officers for the 1973-74 school year are president Denise Miller, vice-president Jenny Hollar, secretary Julia Foster, treasurer Diane Lewis, historian

Jeriann Runnels and program director Mary Ann Wilson. These students will make an effort to plan interesting and informative programs and field trips for the group so that they may see different types of teaching methods.

For example, they may be able to see the different grade levels of teaching and the different types of students such as mentally retarded and handicapped.

Fourteen members of the club have volunteered to give service to a project at Eastside Elementary School. In this project, members go to the school to act as teachers aides during one of their study halls. This will give members first-hand knowledge of the teaching profession.

Computerized registers can do almost anything

By DENNIS STAPLETON
That new sound that the customers of Hidy's Food Market, 1151 Columbus Ave., are hearing is the transistorized tabulations of new computerized cash registers.

Actually, the new sound is almost no sound at all. The only evidence that these new machines are working is a soft hum accompanied by a small beep everytime one of the register keys is depressed - plus the bright red digital figures that are flashed on the visual screen.

Ron Hidy, market owner said that the majority of his customers were curious until they understood how the machines operate.

The new computerized registers, costing in the area of $5,000 each were only the second ones delivered in the state when Hidy's received them. Tarry's Markets in Columbus was the

Information centers set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Transportation will locate seven Motorist Information Centers at key points of entry around the state, Gov. John J. Gilligan said today.

Gilligan said the goal will be to promote travel and tourism in Ohio. He said the state loses millions of tourist dollars yearly because tourists view it as one they must cross on their way to vacation areas.

The planned centers, their locations, completion dates and estimated costs, are as follows:

Belmont County, westbound lane Interstate 70, late fall 1975, $525,000; Butler County, northbound lane Interstate 75, late fall 1975, $672,000; Wood County, two centers, northbound and southbound lanes Interstate 75, late fall 1974, $1,298,000; Washington County, northbound lane, Interstate 77, late fall 1975, $641,000; Trumbull County, westbound lane Interstate 80, late fall 1975, $542,000, and Ashtabula County, westbound lane Interstate 90, late fall 1975, $462,000.

The places for the dinner meetings are selected by the hosts. Hosts for the Thursday meeting were Hugh Wilson, Dr. Hugh W. Payton and Walter H. Seifried.

Hamburger back on agency menu

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a month without hamburger, Agriculture Department employees found it back on their cafeteria menu this week.

"I don't know how long it will last this time," one cafeteria worker said. "But we think there's enough now."

The cafeteria suspended serving hamburgers in August when supplies became short and prices skyrocketed.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The World at War," an extraordinarily ambitious British documentary about World War II and its origins, recently began appearing on U.S. television. Unfortunately, it's seen in but 10 cities right now.

The series will start running next January in another 10 cities, but word-of-mouth about this hour-long program may well increase the number somewhat.

I hope it does, provided all the "World at War" segments are as excellent as the two I've already seen. If they're typical, this new show, produced by Thames Television, deserves a far wider audience than it now has.

The 26 segments, all narrated by Laurence Olivier, start with Hitler's rise to power in 1933 and end with a postwar summing up that asks what the global bloodshed, destruction and suffering really accomplished.

The series examines the war both militarily and politically, using newsreel and rarely-seen combat footage painstakingly compiled from British, American, French, Italian and Japanese archives.

The program isn't a broadbrush look at the war, but rather a detailed, step-by-step analysis of the war's various phases, each segment written by an expert in that particular phase.

One segment scheduled this week, for example, is devoted exclusively to the political instability and military ineptitude that led to the fall of France in 1940.

Future episodes study the air war against Germany, the Italian campaign, the war in Burma, the Pacific war and so on. The 20th segment, simply entitled, "Genocide: 1933-1945,"

1:30 — (2-4-5) Johnny Bench; (6-12-13) College Football.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Don't turn your back on difficult situations. This will be a day in which all problems, no matter how complex, MUST be faced head-on — to avoid still further complications.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Some interesting situations indicated, but certain tedious matters will require attention nonetheless. Pep them up with one of those ingenious "twists" at which you are so adept.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Find Mercury influences now stimulate your mental agility and keen perception. Take the reins firmly in hand and drive straight and sure — to success.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You won't be able to accomplish all you desire, so don't try to crowd yourself or others. Stay "on target" — competent, but not pressured.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

An excellent day for both business and personal interests. Even if you have to make some compromises, it will be profitable in the long run.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Faced with a decision regarding your home or career, take time to think things over. Leaving everything status quo just MIGHT be the wisest course.

LIBRA

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't be so overly cautious that you lose out on advantages. And don't wait for others to "mend the fences." Some things need to be straightened out — by you.

AQUARIUS

Determine distance efforts must stretch to cover ground necessary. You may be tempted to press too hard now — trying to cover more than is possible. DON'T!

PISCES

You may not reach the peak of your expectations, but if you keep things going and have faith, you will achieve a great deal. Take clever short cuts; trim out nonessentials.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly intuitive and your imagination, creativity and healthy curiosity are outstanding. Don't waste time or mental gyrations on trivialities, however. Systemize efforts and you won't become bogged down in nonessentials. You have a keen sense of justice, but may tend to achieve its ends so forcefully that you could defeat your own good purposes. You appreciate music, drama, all things artistic; if a woman, you make an excellent homemaker.

Special session a Gilligan coup?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It looks at the moment as if Gov. John J. Gilligan pulled a political coup in calling a special session of the General Assembly for Oct. 22.

Gilligan wants Ohio's election laws changed. He wants sharply defined spending limits for candidates. He wants to liberalize registration laws to permit door-to-door canvassing for registrations.

This goal looks to most politicians as politically popular in the sensitive aftermath of Watergate. But, even if it isn't, the Republican-dominated Senate faces a dilemma.

If the Senate doesn't give Gilligan what he wants, the governor predictably will blame Republicans, possibly claiming they don't want to open up the election process to everyone.

If the Senate does give Gilligan what he wants, Republicans can hardly blame the legislation on the governor.

In other words, Gilligan can take credit or share the blame.

Republicans may be damned if they don't and in no position to fight back if they do.

Respect and self-respect lacking in litterbugs

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Roger Powers of Keep America Beautiful delivered the speech to the opening session of the Keep Europe Beautiful Conference on Littering here.

He said, "If we can solve the human behavioral problem of littering, we may be able to find answers to many other social issues."

"Littering is a symptom of a great malady affecting all nations. Littering shows a person's indifference, lack of respect and even insecurity."

Was cheaper for Mexicans

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — The penny slots allowing 12 minutes of parking have been removed from the parking meters at this town on the Mexican border. A Mexican five-centavo piece, worth only a third as much, fitted nicely.

Only nickels and dimes are now accepted.

But, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, a Republican, has attacked some of Gilligan's election reform proposals, particularly door-to-door registration canvassing.

"Tombstone voting and other potential frauds could result," said Brown. "Registration is the greatest weapon we have against fraud."

Another Brown—Atty. Gen. William J. Brown—may have done himself a disfavor by refusing to allow Secretary of State Brown to appoint his own counsel in a purely political legal dispute, some political observers from both parties have speculated.

The dispute involves a request by Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, to the U.S. District Court. He wants to overturn a Senate decision that puts his seat up for grabs in 1974, midway through his four-year term.

The action is lodged against Secretary of State Brown, who is required to set up the machinery for the 26th District election.

Former Sen. Robin T. Turner, a Marion Republican, brought suit in the Ohio Supreme Court that resulted in the Senate's action. Turner claimed ballot names were not properly rotated.

By law, Atty. Gen. Brown represents all state officeholders, but in the Turner-Slagle issue the two political parties are financing the battle.

"How can the Democratic attorney general properly represent me in a legal action where both his party and mine are involved?" asked the secretary of state.

Six SCOL teams open title fuss

WCH entertains winless Eagles; MT faces final non-league task

Six of the seven South Central Ohio League football teams will be launching the 46th league championship bash tonight.

While six of the teams are hoping to grab an early lead in the SCOL pennant chase, Miami Trace's Panthers will be finishing preparations for its league opener next week.

WASHINGTON C.H., ranked second in The Associated Press' Class AA high school football poll, is heavily-favored to capture the SCOL title this fall, but at least three other teams are being seriously considered in the championship picture.

Lion back leading SCOL scoring race

Chuck Wilson, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions' sweet-stepping senior tailback, holds a comfortable lead in the South Central Ohio League scoring race, according to statistics compiled today.

The hard-running 6-foot-0, 181-pounder is hoping to defend the SCOL scoring championship he won a year ago by stacking up an impressive total of 122 points.

Wilson has scored two touchdowns in each of Washington C.H.'s three games this fall and has a total of 40 points heading into tonight's SCOL opener with Madison Plains.

Fayette County football players are starting to dominate this year's scoring as they have done in past seasons. Five of the top seven scoring leaders are either from Washington C.H. or Miami Trace.

Miami Trace junior tight end Jay Mossbarger is tied for second in the scoring race with 18 points on the basis of three touchdown passes he caught in the Panthers' win over Columbus Ready last week. Circleville running back Eddy Richter also has 18 points, while Miami Trace's Tom Riley has 15 and Larry Howell, of Washington C.H., owns 14 points.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer's Lions with a lopsided 90-0 scoring margin in its first three games, may have their best team in two decades. The Blue Lions last went unbeaten (9-0) in 1952.

The Lions, who have chalked up three consecutive shutouts, will be entertaining a winless Madison Plains team at 8 p.m. tonight at Gardner Park Stadium.

Madison Plains along with Greenfield McClain and Hillsboro are hoping to crack three-game nosedives.

While the Blue Lions are launching their league schedule, head coach Fred

Zechman's Miami Trace Panthers will be traveling to Chillicothe for its last non-league encounter of the season.

Miami Trace, a winner in two of its three non-league outings, can complete its preparations for the league season with a nifty 3-1 record, providing the Panthers can stop the Cavaliers.

Chillicothe snapped an eight-game tailspin that spanned two seasons with a 14-0 win over Greenfield last week. Head coach Kern McKee's Cavaliers are 1-2 on the season after bowing to Jackson and Washington C.H.

THE SEVEN SCOL teams have posted a lowly 7-14 record against non-league competition so far this season. Last year the league teams registered a 13-15-1 mark.

Elsewhere in tonight's SCOL action, Greenfield will be visiting always-tough Circleville and Wilmington entertains Hillsboro.

Greenfield has experienced its problems under rookie head coach Fred Brisker as the Tigers have scored only six points in three outings and have been blanked in their last two games. Circleville, the defending SCOL champion, will be hoping to end a two-game skid.

Wilmington, under a new head coach Ron Wilt, will be looking for its second win of the season when Hillsboro comes calling tonight. New head coach Mike Doyle's Indians are winless, but show signs of jelling in outings against Unioto and Erlanger, Ky.

Pirates tumble full game off East pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates offered Philadelphia's Bob Boone a free pass but he refused to go along for the ride.

Instead, he helped hand them a 3-2, 13-inning defeat Thursday night that dropped Pittsburgh a full game behind the front-running New York Mets, who were idle, in the tight National League East.

"I always look for something to hit on an intentional walk," said Boone, whose single on a pitch that was supposed to be intentionally bad, helped build the winning Philadelphia run in the 13th.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis blanked Chicago 2-0 and the game between Atlanta and Los Angeles was rained out.

In the American League, Nolan Ryan broke Sandy Koufax's single season strikeout record by notching No. 383 in the 11th inning of California's 5-4 victory over Minnesota; Detroit beat Baltimore 5-2; New York shut out Milwaukee 2-0 and Chicago nipped Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings.

The last batter Nolan Ryan will face in the 1973 season was also the hard-throwing right hander's 383rd strikeout victim of the season which broke Sandy Koufax's single season strikeout record.

ning, the 26-year-old Ryan ran into some trouble.

He developed a cramp in his hamstring muscle in the ninth inning and had gone 11 batters without a strikeout since whiffing Brye in the eighth.

"I've got enough left to strike out one guy," he told Bobby Winkles when the Angel manager visited the mound in the top of the 11th before the California scored a run in the bottom of the 11th to win 5-4.

So he summoned up the energy for three high inside fastballs to Rich Reese and the Twins batted became Ryan's record-setting 383rd strikeout of the year, Ryan's 16th strikeout of the game.

"I feel like my season is over," said Ryan, who was supposed to pitch in the Angels final game so he could set the record. "Now I'm just gonna speculate."

Cardinals 2, Cubs 0 Reggie Cleveland was very economical. He breezed through the Cub line-up, facing the minimum 27 batters while allowing only single.

White Sox 3, Royals 2

Buddy Bradford's solo home run in the bottom of the 10th lifted the White Sox to a 3-2 victory over Kansas City.

Tigers 5, Orioles 2

Dick Sharon's three run double and Joe Coleman's six-hitter gave the Tigers a 5-2 triumph over Baltimore and snapped the Orioles six-game winning streak.

Tennessee meets Auburn in top SEC grid bout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Battle has lost five games since he became coach at Tennessee in 1970. Three of those losses have come at the expense of Auburn.

Battle and his ninth-ranked Volunteers get another shot at Auburn, currently ranked 11th, this Saturday.

"All we've been thinking for a long time is beat Auburn," said senior offensive guard Gene Killian. "I don't want to leave without beating them."

Both teams currently are undefeated after two games, but Tennessee holds a 399.5-261.5 edge in average yards gained per game. The Tigers however have been stingier on defense, allowing only 195.5 yards a game compared to the Vols' 310.

The Tennessee-Auburn contest will probably have an important effect on the Southeastern Conference race, but it is the game between No. 1 Southern California and eighth-ranked Oklahoma Saturday night, which could affect who will be called the top team in the nation next week.

Southern Cal, 2-0, has not allowed a touchdown yet, but will be up against a Sooner offense which Trojan Coach John McKay said "runs the fastest wishbone I have seen."

And although the Trojans are undefeated in 19 straight games, McKay warned that "there is little difference between this team and the team of two years ago that beat us in Norman."

While Southern Cal has drawn stiff opposition this week, many other contenders seem to have it easy.

Second-ranked Nebraska will be hoping that a victory over Wisconsin will springboard them back into the top spot they held before the Trojans.

Third-ranked Ohio State hopes to create a good impression against Texas Christian, while No. 4 Michigan entertains the Naval Academy, No. 5 Alabama is at Vanderbilt and Penn State, No. 6, hosts Iowa.

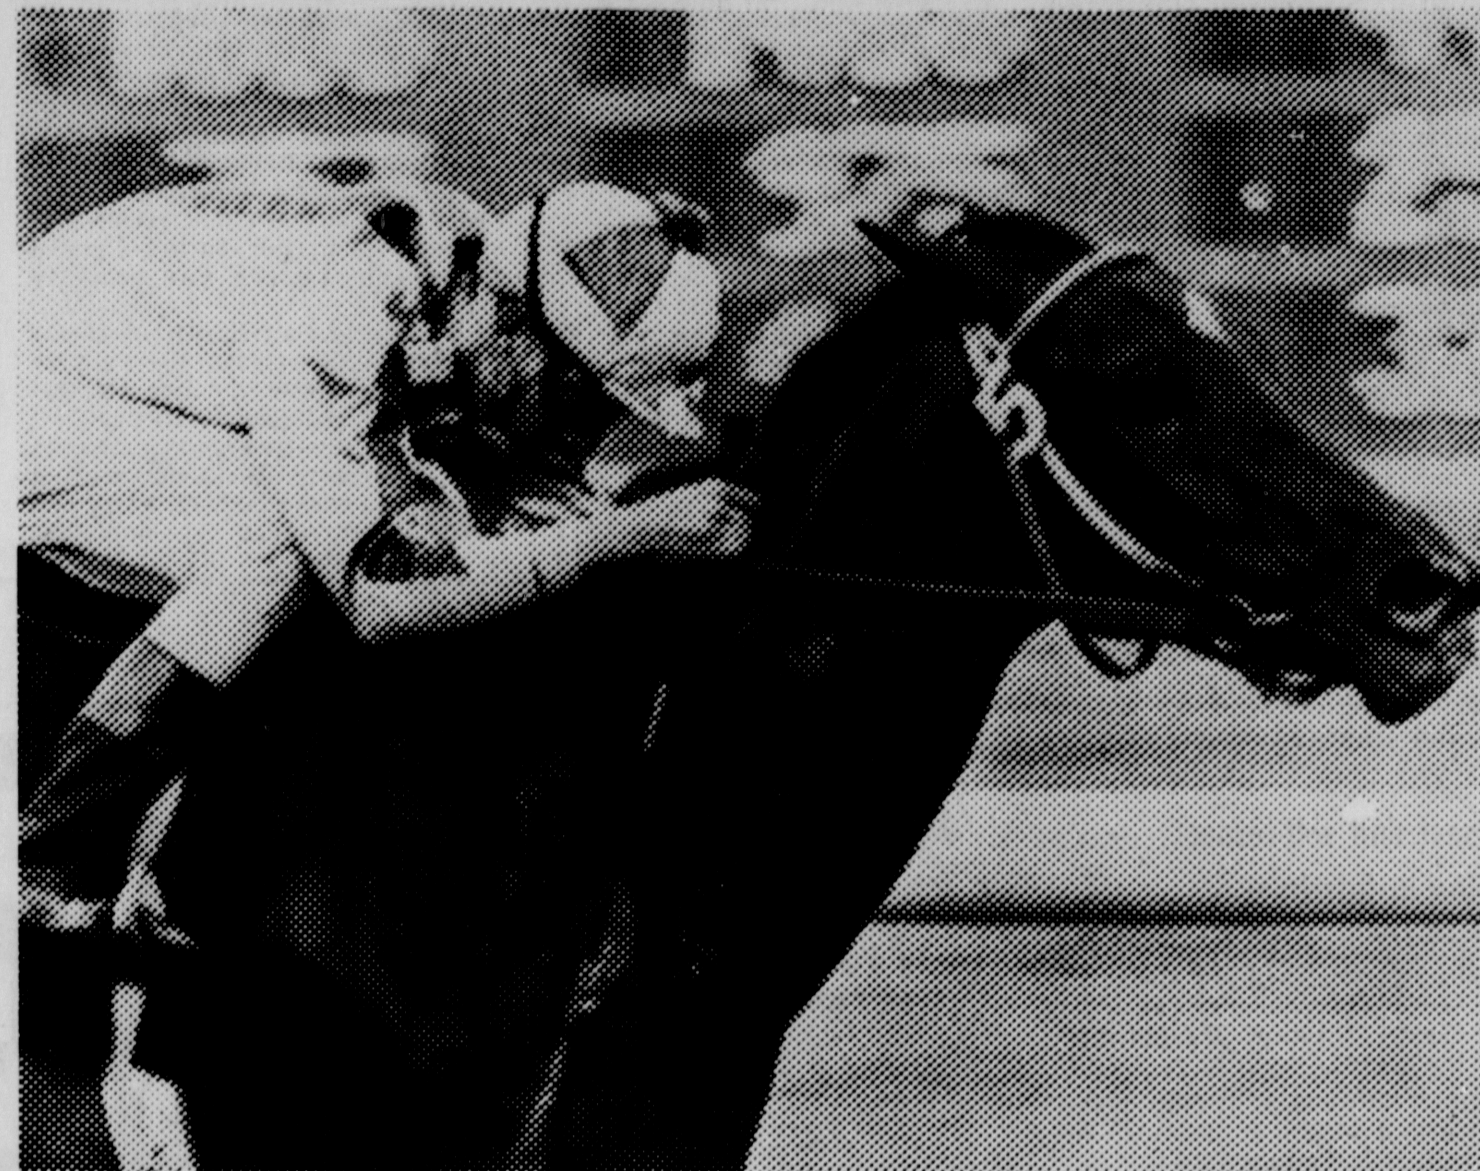

Notre Dame, ranked No. 7, take on the Purdue Boilermakers in a nationally televised game.

Rice will be playing Southwest Conference rival, Louisiana State University, ranked tenth, Southern Illinois is at twelfth-ranked Oklahoma State, and 13th-ranked Arizona State plays Colorado State, which has lost to the Sun Devils 11 straight times, the last three by scores of 79-7, 38-9 and 42-0.

Darrell Royal, coach of 14th-ranked Texas has had two things to worry about this week. His first worry is that Texas can rebound from a 20-15 opening loss to Miami. Royal's second worry is about this week's opponent, Texas Tech, which has been picked as the Longhorns' toughest opposition in the Southwest Conference.

Houston, ranked 15, will be at Memphis State, Florida, No. 16, will be at Mississippi State and 17th-ranked UCLA travels to Michigan State.

Miami, Fla., travels to Florida State, while North Carolina State, No. 19, plays at Georgia and Missouri, picked 20th, plays at North Carolina.

SCHOOLBOY JOCKEY SETS RECORD — Gary Baze, a 17-year-old high school senior, brings home one of 120 winners he had at Longacres Race track at Renton, Wash. Baze, who spent the off days in a classroom 140 miles away, was one shy of the track record, but nearly doubled the mark of 68 winners for apprentice jockeys which was set in 1968.

OSU, Michigan and Illinois favored in college contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nationally third-ranked Ohio State, No. 4 Michigan and surprising Illinois are favored to maintain their perfect records. But Big Ten football prestige otherwise is on the spot in Saturday's 10-game round against outside opposition.

Only Ohio State, picked by 29 points over Texas Christian, and Michigan, tabbed by 28 over Navy, are clear cut choices as other conference clubs lock horns with the likes of second-ranked Nebraska, sixth-rated Penn State and No. 7 Notre Dame.

Illinois, after defeating Indiana and California despite key player injuries, is favored by nine points as the Illini and independent West Virginia match 2-0 records at Champaign, Ill.

Northwestern (1-1) and Indiana (0-2)

face Pittsburgh and Kentucky in home games rated as tossups, while Minnesota (1-1) visits Kansas of the Big Eight as a 7½-point underdog.

Otherwise, the Big Ten seems unlikely to improve its record against outside opposition after an opening 4-6 mark last Saturday.

Lion Cubs rout Unioto

Panther frosh whack WCH

By DENNIS STAPLETON

Record-Herald Sports Writer

The Miami Trace freshman team capitalizing on fumbles and using the specialty teams to set up excellent field position, whacked the Washington C.H. freshman team 34-6 at Miami Trace Field Thursday.

At the same time, the Washington C.H. junior high team, under the command of coach Roger Mickle, rolled easily over Unioto at Gardner Park Stadium 42-0.

Taking advantage of the mistakes of Washington C.H., Miami Trace scored twice in the first quarter, and once in the remaining three quarters, while only allowing Washington C.H. a single score in the third quarter.

IN THE first quarter the Panthers recovered a fumble on Washington C.H.'s 35-yard line. Six plays later, tailback Danny Gifford tallied from four yards out and with quarterback Neil Spears running for the extras Miami Trace led 8-0.

Then again, in the first quarter, Miami Trace put together a 45-yard drive capping it with a five-yard scoring run by Tom Everett. The extra point attempt failed and Miami Trace led 14-0 after the first quarter.

In the second quarter Everett returned a Washington C.H. punt to the 35-yard line. Two plays later, Spears connected with Gifford for a 20-yard touchdown pass. The extras failed and Miami Trace led at halftime, 20-0.

The third quarter started out much as the first half as Miami Trace put together an eight-play drive with Bill Warnock scoring from three yards out. The extra point attempt again failed.

Finally, Washington C.H. put together a 17-play drive and scored by a pass to Mark Burke from the six-yard line. The extras failed, and Miami Trace led 26-6 after three quarters.

In the fourth quarter, on the second play of the series, Everett boot-legged around the end and galloped 47 yards for a score. Spears ran for the extras, and eventually the final score.

Miami Trace totaled 249 yards while holding Washington C.H. to just 79 total yards. Coach Joe Henry reported that the whole team played a fine game and that excellent blocking opened the game up for Miami Trace.

The Miami Trace freshman go against Hillsboro next Thursday at Hillsboro while the Washington C.H. freshman travel to Greenfield.

MEANWHILE, the Washington C.H. junior high was having better luck, as they scored twice in the first quarter, twice in the second quarter, and once in both the third and fourth quarters.

In a game, with everyone of the Washington C.H. players seeing action, the Lion Cubs could do no wrong. Halfback Jeff Elliott scored four times with runs of 41, 27, 42 and a 68-yard punt return to lead the Blue Lions' devastating attack. Quarterback Devik Hargo also passed to Tony West for a 45-yard scoring play. Then if that wasn't enough, backup quarterback Tod Terrell tossed a 43-yard scoring pass to Larry Bennett. The extras were scored by West and Hargo on three different tries.

Mickle praised the whole team for a

Biggest underdog is Purdue (1-1) invading Notre Dame for a nationally televised contest (ABC, 12:50 EST) in which the Fighting Irish are favored by 25 points following an opening 44-0 rout of Northwestern.

Wisconsin (0-2), despite a good showing in a 28-25 loss to Colorado, runs into the mightiest Big Eight contender at Nebraska whose Cornhuskers are rated by 21 over the Badgers.

Iowa, still winless at 0-2, also has a meatgrinder test at Penn State, the pride of the East, whose unbeaten Nittany Lions are picked by 24.

Michigan State (1-1), hard-pressed to defeat weak Syracuse 14-8, is a two-touchdown underdog as host to free-wheeling UCLA which rebounded from an opening 40-13 loss to Nebraska with a 55-18 route of Iowa.

Aaron home run bid sidetracked by rain

ATLANTA (AP) — Third baseman Darrell Evans of the Atlanta Braves has an intense desire to see Hank Aaron's 713th career home run sail out of the park this season.

713? That's right. And, Evans has his reason.

"That's the only way we'll get in the Hall of Fame," Evans said Thursday night. "It sure would be very nice."

Evans is thinking about a feat never accomplished in major league baseball — three players on the same team hitting 40 home runs or more in a season.

Aaron, who now has 712 home runs and needs only two more to tie Babe Ruth's all-time record, has hit 39 this year and has only two more games in which to crack the 40 mark for the eighth time.

Evans smashed his 40th of the season Wednesday night. Second baseman Davey Johnson set the major league record for his position at Los Angeles last week when he belted No. 43, breaking a 51-year-old mark held by Rogers Hornsby at 42.

However, most of the baseball world is more interested in Aaron's chase of the immortal Ruth.

It was sidetracked Thursday night when Atlanta's game against the Los Angeles Dodgers was canceled by rain.

Members of this year's council are the following:

Seniors: Steve Hedges, Council president; Dave Persinger, vice-president; Barb Marvin, secretary; Scott Jenks, treasurer; Julie Frost, publicity chairman; Gary Cobb, class president, and Steve Deere.

During this first meeting the Council discussed plans for the homecoming October 12, which it is in charge of. The theme is "Space Oddity."

Council President Steve Hedges commented, "Council will be more active this year than it has been in the past."

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Adolf Hitler's car is back on the auction block again.

The black, armored-plated 1941 Mercedes will be auctioned off Oct. 8 as part of a sale of up to 100 antique and historical cars.

The car was sold earlier this year to its present owner, Earl Clark.

Audio-visual department outlines some new ideas

BY SUSAN THACKER

The audio-visual department at Miami Trace has some really good ideas for making classes more interesting. One of their goals is to be able to tape educational television and show the programs later in classes to which they would be relevant.

This is one of the ideas which Mr. Larry Stover, the new director of the A-V department, and his assistant, Mr. Paul Grim, hope to put into effect.

The newest piece of equipment, the video tape recorder, is already being used by the instrumental music department to tape the band's half-time performance at football games.

Many people do not realize how important the A-V department is to

MT bowling group meets

By LORA BROOKS

Twenty-six Miami Trace bowlers met at Bowland Lanes recently to begin the 1973-74 season.

A short meeting was held prior to regular bowling. At this time, the club, with advisor Mr. John Wedgewood, discussed the rules. After this, new officers were elected. Randy Reiber soon became accustomed to his new duties as president by presiding over the remainder of the meeting. Gary Williamson was elected vice-president, and Lora Brooks, secretary-treasurer.

Everyone picked a number at random and bowled on that lane. In a few weeks teams will be chosen and the competition will truly begin.

Any Miami Trace student who likes to have fun, whether you can bowl or not is welcome to come at 1 p.m. Saturday.

MISS NANCY CAMPBELL

have more freedom than they did when she attended Miami Trace.

making classes have variety. The equipment must be kept in good working order and available at a few days' notice. In a school of this size that is not always easy.

This service probably would not be possible except for the cooperation of a few students who give up their study halls. They do a variety of jobs, including delivering equipment to teachers and later collecting it, operating the machines, and keeping everything in good working order.

GAA group eyes plans

By CAROL REX

The Miami Trace Girls' Athletic Association held its first meeting with Mrs. Lila Engle as the advisor and Mrs. Sandy Sowash assisting.

Ushers and officials to work at the football game were recruited and Mrs. Engle outlined some of this year's activities. Sports which will be offered this year are archery, golf, tennis, deck tennis, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics and tumbling, badminton, softball, and track. Other ideas for activities included slumber parties, skating parties, bike hikes, and swimming parties.

The girls also learned that they have been granted the use of the gym from 3-4 p.m. once a week. This is very different from past years and will be a boon to the girls' teams. There will be no night meetings unless a special activity is planned and announced.

Trade bill would restrain Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive trade bill tentatively approved by a House committee would give President Nixon broad powers to make trade deals with Japan and Europe but slap a stiff restraint on trade with the Soviets. The bill would give the President extensive power to raise or lower U.S. trade barriers for the trade deals to be negotiated next year, although not the nearly unrestricted power he asked. But it would prohibit U.S. trade concessions for the Soviets unless Nixon determines annually that they do not deny emigration for Jews and other citizens and that they do not impose exorbitant exit fees.

The White House said Thursday the President hopes the bill can yet be "brought closer to, if not brought to" his request for the Soviet trade concessions with no ties.

Boiler explodes; 14 persons hurt

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Fourteen employees were reported injured, one critically, when a boiler exploded today at the Lorain Towel Supply Co.

Firemen said the employees were showered with boiling water and broken glass when the main boiler at the back of the plant exploded, breaking several windows.

Cause of the blast and other details were not available immediately.

But the demand for Soviet emigration reform is heavily co-sponsored in both the House and Senate and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., original author of it, predicted it will pass.

Major provisions of the bill besides the Soviet trade concessions restraint would:

—Authorize the President to lower U.S. tariffs on a sliding scale for trade deals.

—Authorize the President to increase tariffs 20 per cent above present rates or to 50 per cent above the protectionist 1934 Smoot-Hawley level, whichever is highest.

—Authorize the President for the first time to negotiate reduction of countries' nontariff barriers subject to Congress' veto.

—Raise relief payments for workers who lose jobs because of foreign imports to an estimated maximum $170 a week from the present $111.

—Authorize the President to take unrestricted action for 150 days to curb imports aggravating U.S. inflation, and to increase U.S. tariffs up to 15 per cent against imports hurting the U.S. balance of trade. After 150 days, Congress would have to decide whether to extend the authority for either of the special actions.

Red China seeks IMF membership

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Communist China's move toward membership in the International Monetary Fund and World Bank confronts the two organizations with a number of political, legal and economic issues. The way these issues are finally resolved could have a sizable impact on global trading patterns and perhaps open the door to direct Western aid to the People's Republic.

Officials announced Thursday that Peking had made inquiries about membership in letters received Wednesday in Washington. An IMF official said the letters "certainly are a challenge to Taiwan's membership" in the two international financial organizations.

Officials said it was not clear whether Red China actually wants to join at this time or is just harassing Chiang Kaishek's regime.

But the matter was introduced Thursday at the annual meeting of the IMF when Tanzania, an East African nation that gets most of its aid from Peking, said that China should be admitted.

If Peking does make formal application, one issue that would have to be decided is the same one the United Nations confronted when it admitted Communist China and kicked out Taiwan: which is the government of China, the Communists in Peking or the Nationalists in Taipei. Peking is sure to win that one.

Membership in the IMF and the World Bank could facilitate China's trade with the West; its currency would probably be more widely used and China would find it easier to buy from and sell to other nations.

But Peking would be forced to open its economic books to the rest of the world, something Communist countries have been reluctant to do.

Only two Communist nations, Romania and Yugoslavia, now belong to the World Bank and the IMF. The Soviet Union was reported to have inquired about membership requirements recently. But IMF officials — who would welcome the Soviet application — say they believe one is not imminent.

Airliner lost; 11 on board

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A Texas International airliner with 11 persons aboard disappeared in a raging thunderstorm after taking off Thursday night. A ground and air search has turned up no trace of the craft.

Three of the passengers were identified by a spokesman for the Red River Army Depot near Texarkana, Tex., the plane's destination, as officers from the depot. One was flying in to take command of the installation today, the spokesman said.

The airline declined to identify any of the other five passengers or the three crew members.

State police and Civil Air Patrol spokesmen said there was little hope of finding the Convair turbo-prop jet before dawn if it went down in the swampy area along its 75-mile flight path.

The plane left El Dorado at 8:20 p.m. CDT and was scheduled to arrive in Texarkana at 8:40 p.m. It was not heard from after it left El Dorado.

Thunderstorms with high winds and lightning were reported in the area at the time.

Texas International officials reported the plane overdue shortly before midnight.

Bob Brewer, public information officer at Red River Army Depot, identified the three military men as Col. Arthur B. Glenn, who was to assume command of the base today; Col. Robert E. Hoppe and Col. Clayton Craft.

Police chief wins reinstatement bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court upheld the reinstatement today of Harold Huffman as police chief in the Village of West Mansfield in Logan County.

The village appealed after the Logan County Court of Appeals reversed a common pleas court decision and said the village's council acted without authority in relieving Huffman of his duties by passing a motion Nov. 12, 1968.

Bomb blasts U.S. office in California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A bomb exploded outside a federal office building here early today, damaging a basement storage room and sending flames two stories high, police said.

They said another device, which appeared to be a bomb, was dismantled.

Police originally said there had been three bombs, two of which exploded. They said they only found one exploded bomb despite reports of two explosions being heard.

Police Sgt. Clyde Blount said firemen and police received an anonymous telephone call through a long-distance operator shortly before the explosion at 1:25 a.m. They said the caller made no demands or threats.

Blount said the explosive device was believed to be a pipe bomb and apparently was placed on the window sill outside the storage room. He said officers and fire equipment did not arrive until after the explosion.

The blast shattered a large window and caused extensive damage to the room, said fire inspector James Mahoney. He said damage was confined to the small room and no one was injured.

Flames soared up the outside of the gray stone building in Civic Center before firemen extinguished the blaze.

Blast rips New York ITT office

NEW YORK (AP) — A powerful explosion ripped through the executive offices for LatinAmerican operations of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. in a midtown Manhattan skyscraper early today.

The blast blew out windows and caused extensive damage but there was no fire and no injuries. An anonymous caller telephoned the New York Post and claimed the "Weather underground" had attacked ITT.

In Rome, a small bomb was thrown at the office of ITT Standard S.A., the Italian subsidiary of the multinational conglomerate. The blast damaged two doors slightly.

An ITT spokesman in New York said the firm had found no connection between the two blasts. "There's no evidence to link the two situations," said David Kiernan.

In Manhattan, the explosion occurred on the ninth floor of the 41-story ITT American Building on Madison Avenue near 50th Street. Police had earlier received a telephoned warning that a bomb would go off inside the ITT building.

But the caller did not specify which building and police units went to the corporation's world headquarters nearby on Park Avenue. They were there when the blast occurred around 2:40 a.m.

Boyle now off critical list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former union boss W. A. "Tony" Boyle was taken off the critical list today at George Washington University Hospital.

The hospital said he continued to improve and his personal physician, Dr. Milton Gusack, said he was alert and talking.

He remained in the intensive care unit, where his condition was listed as serious.

weaken the United States in negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The 48-36 vote Thursday night was the third this week on reducing the American force overseas. On Wednesday a 40 per cent cutback was adopted tentatively only to be overturned on a subsequent vote.

Republican Sens. John G. Tower of Texas and Strom Thurmond of South Carolina argued that a reduction would make it difficult for President Nixon to negotiate for troop cuts by both the United States and the Soviet Union.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., chief sponsor of the compromise cutback, said the amendment would allow the President to decide where to make withdrawals — and that most could come from Asia and the Pacific without disturbing the NATO force in Europe.

The amendment, which now must go to the House where three similar attempts have failed, orders a reduction of 40,000 troops by next June 30, and another 70,000 by Dec. 31, 1975.

The reductions would be made from the 487,000 landbased troops stationed in 34 countries. Sea-based forces are exempt from the cutback.

The Humphrey amendment was tied to the $21-billion military procurement authorization bill for the current fiscal year.

Debate on the bill was to continue today.

Earlier Thursday the Senate rejected 49 to 47 an attempt to block acceleration of the Trident missile-firing submarine system.

The Pentagon lobbied heavily for the Trident speedup. But opponents claimed money would be saved by delaying work on nine Trident sub systems until the first one is in operation.

Mondale studies presidential bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale says he is in "a very preliminary stage" of a possible 1976 presidential bid but that he will have to decide on running sooner than other potential candidates.

Mondale said in an interview he doubts he can wait as late as 1975 before making a decision.

"I'm not well known so I would have to make a decision earlier than some others," the 45-year-old Minnesota Democrat said. "Without getting into names, there are some people who are quite well-known nationally."

Mondale said he thinks Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts "is clearly the dominant possibility at this time" for the Democratic nomination.

Mondale said his effort, which has received encouragement from fellow Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, is in "a discussion stage."

"I have been traveling around the country some, making speeches, mostly talking with political leaders about how they view the whole matter of the Democratic party," he added.

He expects to step up speechmaking through the 1974 election but said he has hired no additional staff, raised no money and launched no research on either issues or the mechanics of a presidential bid.

Humphrey said in a separate interview that he has assured Mondale "I'm not going to run" but that he is keeping his options open in the event the 1976 Democratic Convention becomes deadlocked.

Mondale said the fall of 1973, three years before the 1976 election, isn't too early to make initial moves and added that he has decided to be frank about a possible candidacy.

"Typically," he said, "candidates who are running go through this period of shyness and coyness where they pretend they're not doing what they're doing."

"I decided that that is artificial," he said. "The public might just as well know and has a right to know what you're up to."

He said he has received both encouragement and discouragement in his travels about the country. He said he has sought no commitments and conceded "I do not see any landslide for Walter Mondale."

State park survey set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources announced today a statewide survey aimed at determining what facilities and services Ohioans would like to have improved or installed at their state parks.

Director William B. Nye said "we hope to determine exactly what the people of Ohio want." He said this will be the first time Ohioans have been asked to take part in such a program, and said it is part of Gov. John J. Gilligan's efforts to involve citizens in governmental decisions.

He said the survey will include mailing of eight-page questionnaires to 33,000 Ohio households. The households were selected by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, he said, "on a statistically accurate random basis."

Nye urged citizens to cooperate, noting that "the 33,000 households will be responding on behalf of 11 million Ohioans and the more responses we get, the more valid our survey will be."

He said it takes about 30 minutes to answer the questions on the survey.

Arab terrorists grab hostages

VIENNA (AP) — Two Arab gunmen commandeered a train with Soviet Jews at the Austrian-Czechoslovak border today and killed one railway official and injured two other men, officials reported.

The Arabs then took nine hostages, including several Jews, got into a car and drove to the Vienna airport. Police surrounded the car, parked near a Spanish airliner, and began negotiating with the terrorists.

The train was taking the Jews from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, to Vienna for transfer to the Schonau processing center prior to their emigration to Israel. It was commandeered at Marchegg, 28 miles east of Vienna. The number of Jews aboard the train was not known.

Discontent seen with General Telephone pact

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 2,800 telephone operators, clerks and installer-repairmen have until Oct. 3 to accept or reject new contract proposals of the General Telephone Co.

At least one union local president says he'll ask members to vote against the pact, which offers a 25-cent-per-hour wage hike and increased fringe benefits.

Acceptance of a new two-year contract was announced Thursday by Communication Workers of America bargainers, signaling an end to a bitter 75-day strike.

The strike, affecting telephone service in 77 Ohio counties, was marred by incidences of violence and widespread vandalism.

The new agreement reflected demands by workers for bigger salaries, more hospital coverage and vacation time, and a requirement that all represented employees pay union dues.

But Athens local president Sam Eblen said Thursday he thinks the package could've been plumper.

"I don't think we gained a thing since September ninth," said Eblen, a member of the union's bargaining team.

Union officials had called a press conference Sept. 9, reportedly to announce an end to the dispute, only to say later a "last minute hitch" had forced a change in plans.

That hitch was nonacceptance of the contract by international union leaders, company spokesmen said later.

Eblen said he thought workers got a better deal in the first contract.

The two contracts are the same except that the later one cuts down on grievance time payments by the company, Eblen said.

"I'm not going to vote for this contract. And I'm going to urge my

Gas stations closing in price protest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Service station operators in western New York State were set to start a weekend protest shutdown today as disgruntled dealers across the nation awaited action by the Cost of Living Council on easing of Phase 4 price controls.

About 500 gasoline retailers in the Buffalo, N.Y., area planned to close from noon today until Monday morning to demonstrate opposition to the controls.

Some 225 gas dealers began an indefinite shutdown Thursday night in northern Indiana while hundreds of service stations stayed closed in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Station operators were awaiting an announcement by the Cost of Living Council on ceiling price increases. One source close to the council said the raise would be 1 or 2 cents a gallon.

Council Director John T. Dunlop confirmed Wednesday the council will approve price increases this week. The change came after President Nixon said he wanted the hike this week.

Many dealers, however, have said they also want new rules that will allow them to pass on to customers any future hikes in wholesale prices. The council was said to be considering such changes.

"If they come out with anything less than a pass-through of the wholesale cost and an increase in the ceiling price of one cent, they haven't done anything," said Charles Binsted, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers.

"Anything less than that is going to be looked at with great disfavor by the nation's dealers," Binsted said Thursday.

The Gulf Oil Co. announced Thursday it was increasing its wholesale gasoline prices another one-half cent a gallon. The raise followed a hike of nine-tenths of a cent per gallon Sept. 19.

Several hundred Houston service station dealers agreed at a meeting Thursday night to close their stations next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to protest the Phase 4 ceiling prices.

The Indiana shutdown involved about 225 gasoline retailers in Elkhart, South Bend and Mishawaka who voted to close indefinitely. The leader of the group, Tom Reamer, said dealers would stay shut until they "get a fair shake" from the government.

In the St. Louis area, the Service Station Dealers of Missouri said the six-day shutdown was about 75 per cent effective as it got under way Thursday.

In Seattle, the Automobile Club of Washington warned that as many as 90 per cent of the gas stations in the Puget Sound area may shut down this weekend if the Cost of Living Council does not ease the price controls enough.

Meanwhile, many Michigan gas stations were expected to be closed or open for only limited hours this weekend in Michigan because of tight gasoline supplies.

No station closings seen here

Service stations and bulk plants around Fayette County are in about the same predicament as far as gasoline shortages are concerned as they were at this time a month ago.

The Record-Herald learned through a spot check Friday that service stations in Washington C.H. and the surrounding area have no immediate plans for completely closing their operations, either because of a shortage or as a price protest.

Most of the gasoline dealers here indicated that they are experiencing no trouble in obtaining gasoline supplies. But the dealers pointed out that they are only receiving their normal monthly allotments and no more.

The majority of the service stations here have curtailed their working hours, some closing an hour earlier at night. Other dealers have been closing their stations on Saturday and Sunday.

Despite a number of closings across the nation the gasoline dealers here said they are not receiving more fuel supplies. None of the stations here are rationing gasoline to their customers.

ONE OPERATOR was optimistic about the future. He said "the real pinch was last summer . . . that was when I cut down by closing an hour earlier every day and on Saturday afternoon and Sunday." The dealer said he had to let some of his help go to reduce expenses and added, "I'm happy the way it is now. I like these shorter hours."

He commented that a representative of his supplier told him that "if you want to go back to the old schedule and put on more attendants, we'll get you the gasoline."

Another dealer here said he expects a shortage in anti-freeze within the next two months. "If it's not one thing it's another," he commented.

Red cosmonauts report all going well on orbital trip

MOSCOW (AP) — Everything is reported going well with the Soviet Union's first manned space flight in two years.

"The mood is cheerful and we feel as if we were in the training system," cosmonaut Vasily Lazarev told ground controllers after Soyuz 12 was fired into earth orbit Thursday.

Only a two-day flight was planned, and the spaceship will return to earth Saturday, the Russians announced.

Tass said Lazarev, the mission commander, and flight engineer Oleg Makarov — both space rookies — were "feeling well, and the craft's on-board systems are functioning well."

Lazarev, a 45-year-old lieutenant colonel, is a doctor and test pilot who was a backup crewman for a 1964 Voskhod mission and the 1970 Soyuz 9 shot. Tass said Makarov, 40, "took part in development of spacecraft" and has been on the cosmonaut team since 1966.

The mission was launched from the Baikonur space center on the plains of Kazakhstan in central Asia just two days after the three American Skylab 2 astronauts returned from a record 59½-day flight.

The cosmonauts' mission includes "comprehensive checking and testing of improved flight systems and further testing of the process of manual and automatic control in various flight conditions," Tass said.

Their spacecraft is an improved version of Soyuz 11, in which three cosmonauts died in June 1971 when its hatch failed to close properly after undocking from the orbiting Salyut 1 space lab.

Tass said the cosmonauts also would make spectroscopic studies of various parts of the earth to obtain "data for the solution of economic problems." It did not elaborate.

A Soyuz craft is expected to take part in a 1975 space mission with an American Apollo vehicle, and some U.S. scientists expect a successful long Soyuz flight before the joint mission takes place.

Raises would range as high as 36 cents an hour, depending on job classification, he said.

Company spokesman Don Detwiler said it would take a "couple months or more" before the company could get back on schedule once workers returned to their jobs.

"If there had been no vandalism during the strike, we could be in good shape now," he said. Since the strike began July 16, the firm reported more than 900 cable cuts and over $1 million in damages.

Marion police reported an elderly local man died of a heart attack last Monday after downed telephone cables kept his wife from calling for help.

Detweiler said further repairs might be necessary on some cables that had been temporarily spliced.

"But overall, it isn't a real critical situation," he said. "We're just glad the strike might be over soon."

Heavy rains bring floods to Southland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms lingered over much of the midcontinent today and caused additional flooding from Texas to Missouri.

The persistent rains sent many streams over their banks in central and eastern Kansas, Missouri and parts of Oklahoma and Texas.

The Arkansas River at Hutchinson, Kan., crested five feet above its banks early today. The lower Missouri River was four feet over its banks at Waverly, Mo.

Heavy rains fell on the Plains through Thursday night.

Kansas, still cleaning up from tornadoes early in the week, was faced with serious flooding. Some residents of the flood plains of the Solomon, Saline and Smoky Hill rivers in north-central and eastern Kansas have evacuated their homes.

The Chikaskia River in Oklahoma was five feet above flood stage and still rising. Fourteen to 15 families in Blackwell, Okla., were expected to evacuate their homes and others might follow, officials said.

More than 1,000 persons fled their homes in the San Antonio, Tex., area Thursday as heavy rains blocked roads and five feet of water surrounded about 80 homes.

The high water at Seguin, about 40 miles northeast of San Antonio, and at nearby New Braunfels was said to rival the devastating 1971 floods of the Guadalupe River.

Several deaths Thursday in Texas were directly or indirectly attributed to the weather. One San Antonio woman drowned when caught in a swift current of water as she walked on a street near her home. Five others died in traffic accidents in heavy rains.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 37 at Casper, Wyo., to 81 at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Hostages freed in escape bid

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Twelve women prisoners and a matron were released unharmed early today, 5½ hours after they were seized during an escape attempt at city jail, authorities said.

"They threatened me. They threatened to blow my brains out. They threatened to cut my head off," sobbed the matron, Betty Scott.

Officials said the incident started shortly after midnight when seven male inmates overpowered two guards.

Cambodians land

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian forces landed on an island near the mouth of the Tonle Sap lake and liberated 344 villagers from Khmer Rouge control, the government reported today.

The indictment said LaFatch, using information he had gathered by talking to Ohio Commerce Director Dennis Shaul, led John W. Vogel of Realty Nation Corp. to believe he could influence Commerce Department approval of a stock issuance the firm had planned.

"I am gratified my confidence in Dennis Shaul has been vindicated by a Justice Department investigation which has extended over five months,"

PROPERTY RECOVERED—Two tires, believed to have been taken during a burglary at Knisley Pontiac early Friday were recovered from an auto owned by Walter D. Aills, Jr., who was arrested a short time after the incident. A search warrant was obtained after Aills refused to give permission for the vehicle to be searched. County Prosecutor Otis Hess accompanied Patrolmen Mike Stritenberger and Larry Hott to Bell's Shell where the car had been impounded.

Burglary charge filed after theft of tires

City police arrested Walter D. Aills Jr., 1218 Rawlings St., Friday morning shortly after receiving a call from a private citizen that someone had been seen leaving Knisley Pontiac, 1159 Columbus Ave., carrying two automobile tires.

Sgt. Luther Anderson and Patrolman Larry Hott were dispatched to the scene at approximately 3:50 a.m. Anderson checked the building while Hott talked to the caller to get further information.

The witness gave a description of the intruder.

Hott found Aills walking along Blackstone Street, and as the cruiser approached he fled. Aills was discovered hiding behind a house on Temple Street and was arrested.

When he refused to give the police permission to search his car, officers obtained a search warrant from Judge Rollo Marchant to enable them to recover two tires, believed to be the ones taken, from the back seat of Aills' car.

Aills has been charged with burglary and larceny.

Garrison acquitted of bribery charge

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "Oh, ye of little faith," Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said to newsmen as he emerged from court cleared of a charge of taking bribes to protect gambling interests.

A U.S. District Court jury, after deliberating for 15 hours Thursday rejected what U.S. Atty. Gerald Gallinghouse called an airtight case.

Two pinball executives tried with Garrison were acquitted of giving bribes.

Garrison, 52, and the executives were charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice. They were accused of giving or taking bribes to protect illegal pinball machine gambling, once a multimillion-dollar business here.

Garrison called the verdict a vindication of his claim he was framed in revenge for insisting that the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas was a conspiracy involving the "warfare sector of the United States government."

He said the jury of nine men and three women "recognized a government attempt to accomplish retribution against an individual who had frequently criticized the federal government," he said.

"That's ridiculous and ludicrous, and he knows it," snapped Gallinghouse.

Garrison handled his own defense after his two lawyers withdrew, claiming differences over how the defense should be conducted.

The strategy enabled Garrison to stand before the jury at his persuasive best, including a three-hour final argument at the end of the six-week trial, without exposing himself to cross-examination.

Much of the case was based on what the prosecution called secretly recorded conversations between Garrison and a man he considered to be his best friend, Pershing Gervais. Garrison claimed the tapes were faked.

Gervais said he carried four $1,000 payoffs to the district attorney, with each visit closely supervised by Internal Revenue Service agents.

Blame pilot error in crash fatal to 45 persons in 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sabotage played no part in the Chicago airline crash that killed 45 persons, including the wife of convicted Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt, the National Transportation Safety Board says.

The safety board said Thursday the probable cause of the crash was "... the captain's failure to exercise positive flight management." This resulted in the plane losing airspeed and going into a stall, the board concluded.

Chicago legal researcher Sherman Skolnick had claimed the plane was sabotaged because, he said, 12 of the passengers were directly linked to Watergate.

He said some of those passengers carried documents that linked President Nixon and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell with Watergate.

Hunt's wife had $10,000 in $100 bills in her purse when she died.

The United Air Lines crash occurred during a routine landing approach at Chicago's Midway Airport last December.

Among those killed were Rep. George W. Collins, D-Ill., and CBS newswoman Michele Clark.

The board said it found no evidence foul play or sabotage was involved in the crash. It also said it found no

Gov. John J. Gilligan said.

The governor, in a prepared statement, said Shaul had been subjected "to a particularly vicious attack in some segments of the public media."

Realty National needed commerce department approval to put $10 million of stock on the market. It wanted the money to finance expansions of its Christopher Inn Hotel in downtown Columbus.

Alerted by Vogel, the FBI raided LaFatch's Miami, Fla., home April 27 and confiscated $50,000, which allegedly had been paid in two separate payoffs.

The major portion of the six-count indictment accused the Akron investor of extortion under threat of economic harm. He allegedly told Realty National officials their stock insurance request would be denied if he didn't get the money.

Other counts are based on extortion in violation of interstate commerce, using the telephone and crossing state lines allegedly to work the scheme.

U. S. Atty. William Milligan said LaFatch's attorney had voluntarily agreed to appear at the arraignment, probably within the next two weeks. He has not been arrested.

Milligan said the case probably would go to trial within three to eight months.

Gilligan said the indictment supported the findings of his own probe "which concluded that no employee or official of state government was involved in the alleged bribe attempt."

The results of Gilligan's probe have yet to be released. An aide, Robert Tenenbaum, indicated the report would be made public within the next two days.

Skylab crew takes day off

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Back home and feeling great after their record space flight, the Skylab 2 astronauts today enjoyed their first day off in more than two months.

Returning space heroes normally plunge right into debriefing sessions. But except for brief medical exams, Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were told to take it easy. They had been away from earth a long time.

They will start 15 days of intense debriefings Saturday, discussing with space agency experts all aspects of Skylab 2's 59½-day orbital journey.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma left the recovery carrier New Orleans in San Diego, Calif., and flew home Thursday night.

As their jet taxied to a stop at nearby Ellington Air Force Base, the men's wives drove up in an antique 1929 car bearing signs which read "59 days or bust" and "Hooray, we made it."

The women wore long flowing dresses and bonnets that were fashionable a century ago, and immediately drew long laughs from the astronauts. The couples then embraced.

Still feeling the effects of their long exposure to weightlessness, the spacemen walked steadily but slowly to a platform to address about 500 persons, most of them space workers.

Bean, the Skylab 2 commander, thanked Johnson Space Center director Dr. Christopher C. Kraft for a decision made on the fifth day of the flight not to bring the astronauts home.

A serious leak had developed in a steering rocket of the Apollo ferry ship, but after consulting with ground experts Kraft decided the spacemen could stay aloft. A rescue rocket was readied at Cape Kennedy, Fla., in case the Apollo systems deteriorated.

"That was a tough decision he had to make, and it turned out just right," Bean said.

Garriott said the mission had "days of adventure, days of hard work and there was even time for a little fun."

He said the mission belonged not only to the men, but also to millions of Americans and the thousands of space workers who made it possible.

Lousma told the crowd, "I thank the American people for their spirit that makes a flight like this possible."

With Lousma at the wheel, the astronauts and their wives rode down the runway in the antique car, laughing and joking. They switched to limousines for the trip to their nearby homes.

Raney denies buying gun from guard

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Raney, 23, a Lucasville penitentiary inmate, has denied that a gun he used to kill a penitentiary guard July 24 was sold to him by another guard now on trial.

Raney contradicted earlier testimony to a grand jury that Ronald Pratt, 27, a guard, sold him the gun he used in the murder of Arthur Sprouse, 41.

Scioto County Prosecutor Everett Burton, who called Raney as a state's witness, Thursday was allowed by Judge Richard Canter to question Raney about his grand jury testimony.

Raney's testimony came in the second day of the trial of Pratt on charges of smuggling a gun into the penitentiary and aiding Raney in an attempt to escape.

Raney testified Thursday he got the gun from another inmate.

Several other state witnesses traced the possession of the gun before it got into the hands of Raney. Billy Fagan of Portsmouth said he sold the gun to Pratt at a bar in Portsmouth.

Fagan said on two occasions after the killing of the guard he had conversations with Pratt in which Pratt told him to not say anything about the gun.

The state rested its case Thursday and the defense began calling witnesses.

Murder conviction upheld by court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first degree murder conviction of a Cincinnati man was allowed to stand today by the State Supreme Court.

Russell Lee Simmons was indicted in the bludgeon slaying of John W. Dockery, 72, on Nov. 19, 1970, during a robbery in which two men participated.

The Hamilton County Court of Appeals affirmed the trial court's sentence of life imprisonment. Simmons' counsel claimed the jury at his trial was improperly instructed.

Space commander dies

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Col. Harold R. Turner, 75, known as the "granddaddy of Cape Canaveral" and the first commander of the White Sands Missile Range, died Thursday. He commanded the range in 1945-47 during the time when German scientists began experiments with V-2 rockets captured during World War II.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices, sharply lower in early trading today, strengthened by midday but still were down for the first time in eight days.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.85 to 946.42 at noon, trimming an earlier 10-point loss. Falling stocks led gainers by nearly 2 to 1, and trading was moderately slow on the New York Stock Exchange.

On the American Stock Exchange the market value index at noon was off .32 to 105.15 as TWA warrants, unchanged at 4¼, led trading. Many of the oil and gas issues were lower.

On the Big Board, the NYSE broad-based index of 1,500 common stocks was off .32 at 48.48. Also active were Fannie Mae, up ¾ at 21¾; Armco Steel, ahead ¼ at 22½; and Delta Air Lines, down ¾ at 51.

Clouds increased and thickened over Ohio Thursday night, bringing the predicted rain out of a cold front moving slowly from Michigan into the state's northern counties.

A few isolated thundershowers spread into the central counties Friday morning but precipitation amounts were rather light.

Under the heavy cloud blanket temperatures Friday morning lowered only into the 60s and 70s.

Showers, rain and clouds will keep temperatures on the cool side Friday with readings ranging from the 60s and 70s in the north to the 70s and 80s south of the cold front. The precipitation is forecasted to continue into Saturday and Sunday. Night time temperature readings will remain in the 60s.

There is a chance of rain in Ohio Sunday, followed by clearing skies Monday and Tuesday. Highs all three days will be in the 70s and lows will be in the 50s.

Jewish leader Beckwith target?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Self-professed segregationist Byron De La Beckwith has been arrested for driving into the city from Mississippi with a ticking time bomb and other weapons.

A local newspaper and radio station both quoted federal sources today as saying A.I. "Bee" Botnick, head of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League in New Orleans, was Beckwith's apparent target.

They said Botnick apparently went into hiding after learning of the Beckwith's alleged plans.

Beckwith, 52, was tried twice, but not convicted, of the 1963 murder of civil rights worker Medgar Evers.

Police intelligence officers would neither confirm nor deny that Botnick was Beckwith's intended victim.

Leaders of the city's Jewish community were unable to provide information on Botnick's whereabouts.

It was not clear what might have provoked an attack on Botnick.

Botnick was reported to be working for the Anti-Defamation League in Mississippi in recent weeks.

Plan to put dye into Mad River

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency will put a harmless red dye into the Mad River the week of Oct. 1 to try to determine how fast contaminants flow downstream.

The department will take samples at most road crossings along the 63-mile extent of the study.

Similar studies have been made on the Sandusky and Great Miami rivers.

State worker's reinstatement ordered by court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former Department of Transportation employee laid off from his job in 1972 had his reinstatement upheld today by Ohio's Supreme Court.

The state appealed from a decision of an appeal court that reversed lower courts, thus ordering Robert D. Hawk of Portsmouth reinstated in his DOT Division Nine job as a member of a survey crew.

Counsel for Hawk contended his layoff was a result of politics under a system "that is a sham and is merely a coverup of a method to exclude employees of the opposing political party from employment."

Hawk became employed by the department in December 1967. His dismissal by the state, which cited a lack of work, had been upheld by the State Personnel Board of Review

Woman robber dies in crash

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—An 18-year-old woman died in a traffic crash today moments after she ran from an attempted robbery at a grocery store, Police Chief John Malinowski reported today.

Malinowski said the unidentified woman had demanded that an employee of the store, Jack's Market, give her money but was refused, then ran from the store and drove away.

Pursued by two witnesses, she ignored a stop sign at a highway intersection and her car collided with another, injuring three persons in the other car and killing herself, Malinowski said.

Individual Soviet dissenters remain active

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Kremlin evidently won a victory over the voices of dissent in the success of Case 24, but the cost may yet prove to have been heavier than it reckoned.

Case 24 was the code name applied by the KGB, or secret police, to an operation that was a key part of the most sustained official assault on dissent since the Stalin era.

A wave of searches, arrests and trials begun early in 1972 was well advanced by spring when the KGB bore down heavily on a special target: the Chronicle of Current Events.

The Chronicle, a celebrated "samizdat," or self-publication, journal had appeared regularly every two months since April 1968 and was about to publish its 24th issue in April 1972. The journal, typewritten with carbon copies, circulated widely.

The KGB couldn't stop No. 24, nor could it prevent 25, 26 or 27 from appearing. But 27 was the last. Since last Oct. 15 no issue of the Chronicle has appeared.

"For several years the self-sacrificing Chronicle quenched a general and natural human thirst: to know what is going on," Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Nobel Prize writer, said in a recent interview. "It brought to the surface, from the deep abyss of ignorance, just a little, little part of our terrible history — and for that it has been destroyed and crushed with such thoroughness."

Solzhenitsyn, along with Andrei D. Sakharov, the nuclear physicist, and a few other stalwarts, represent the only real remaining challenge to the regime's repressions and have been targets of heavy attack and threats.

Clearly, the death of the Chronicle was a main goal of the official crackdown on restive intellectuals. The KGB closed the trap on the Journal with the arrest of Pyotr Yakir, a historian, and Viktor Krasin, an economist, both active in the civil rights movement.

Before he was taken to Lefortovo Prison for interrogation, Yakir confided to friends he would not be able to withstand the pressure and would tell them anything if they beat him.

Yakir's was a tragic story. In the Stalin purges of the 1930's, his father, a Red army commander, was executed. Because of its relationship to "an enemy of the people," the Yakir family was sent to a labor camp. Not until the brief "thaw" period under Nikita S. Khrushchev were the Yakirs freed. "Samizdat," which circulated many a now-celebrated work of writers unable to publish legally, put out Yakir's story too, an account called "Childhood in Prison" about his 14 years in the camp.

In the van of those protesting harsh treatment of intellectuals, Yakir in 1968 circulated a document warning that the regime under Leonid I. Brezhnev was restoring Stalinism, whereupon the KGB threatened both him and his daughter. Last year the bearded, sad-eyed Yakir, now 50, fell into the big KGB roundup net.

Indications were that he talked a good deal regarding names and operations of the Chronicle. A recently exiled dissenter said Yakir had been told he'd get an extra year's sentence for every edition that appeared. He drew only three years.

It had been obvious that the Yakir-Krasin trial was in reality the trial of the Chronicle and the whole rights movement. Yakir, according to the official Tass agency, was persuaded to testify that the movement didn't really exist but was an invention of a subversive organization "with the high-sounding name of 'Group in Defense of Human Rights.'" No foreign correspondents were permitted to attend the trial.

The Human Rights Committee was founded in November 1970 by Sakharov after a previous period of repressions. In association with Andrei Tverdokhlebov and Valery Chalidze, fellow physicists, his aim was to seek reform by legal means within the existing political framework. Other scientists joined and Solzhenitsyn, among others, became a "corresponding" member. The Chronicle circulated their pronouncements, which invariably reached Western hands.

The Kremlin silenced the Chronicle, but continued to be infuriated by luminaries like Sakharov and Solzhenitsyn.

Item: Sakharov summoned Western journalists to warn that detente on Soviet terms without democracy would simply liberate the Kremlin from problems it couldn't solve for itself and let it concentrate on strength so that eventually "the whole world would be disarmed and facing our uncontrollable bureaucratic apparatus."

Item: Writer Vladimir Maksimov made public a letter warning West Germany on detente with Moscow. It noted that "only the Almighty can know what price in blood we will pay for the diabolical games of the blockheads of modern diplomacy."

Item: Solzhenitsyn added to official pain by speaking bluntly to the Western press about pressures brought against him. He deplored what he saw as the timidity of the West in meeting "a sudden revival of barefaced barbarity" with nothing but concessions and smiles.

All this damaged the "peaceful coexistence" image Brezhnev, the Communist party chief, had tried to build. The response sounded ominous. Sakharov was warned officially he was being "harmful and frankly anti-Soviet." Solzhenitsyn was accused of serving "the evil designs of imperialism."

But the Kremlin remained eager for business designs with that same "imperialism," and now the voices of the dissidents had become so loud that the whole structure of the "peaceful coexistence" policy, so carefully built over several years, might be endangered.

In the United States, the National Academy of Sciences warned that any punishment of Sakharov could lead to curtailment of cooperation with American science — and technology is the name of the Brezhnev game so far as detente with Washington is concerned.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means committee and a powerful voice in matters relating to trade and tariffs, made it clear he remains opposed to trade concessions for Moscow while the Kremlin continues to harass "men of creativity and courage."

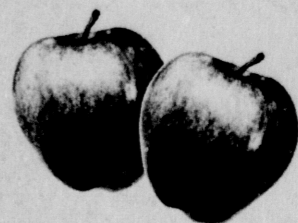

The American Psychiatric Association has declared that if the Soviet regime, as charged, uses mental hospitals for punishment purposes, that must be ended at once.

American writers are up in arms against liberalization of trade between the Soviet Union and the United States while the Kremlin holds so tight a rein on its cultural figures.

European figures are making their protest felt in high places. In West Germany, following the protests of some celebrated personalities in the cultural world, the government hinted that persecution of outstanding Soviet intellectuals for their views could have an impact on future Bonn-Moscow relations.

Clearly, then, the remaining strong voices of dissent, though they might not speak for a large number of people, still were able to present the Kremlin with an uncomfortable dilemma.

Should anything happen to such outstanding figures, the resultant protests might do irreparable damage to the Brezhnev policy.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Politics or a religion?

There is an Irish anecdote about New York politics in the 1890s. Reilly, the precinct captain, drops in at the saloon for a beer and takes time out to pull a handkerchief and polish up his brass knuckles. O'Brien, the bartender, inquires "What's up?" "The Democratic county committee," replies Reilly, dropping the knuckle-dusters back in his pocket, "is having a unity meeting tonight."

This came to mind when I read the bad news from Washington that the Democratic National Committee is calling a mini-convention next year where all its internal problems are expected to be ironed out. Worse than that, a special Charter Commission is scheduled to present the assembled delegates with a distillation of the true Democratic faith.

FOR YEARS a number of liberals have been eagerly trying to convert the Democrats from a political party into a church. On the other side of the hill, the conservatives made a similar effort and, in 1964, succeeded. Despite the lesson of the Goldwater campaign, the Democratic militants continued and, of course, won the day with the nomination of George McGovern. However, unlike the Republicans, the Democrats have refused to evacuate Death Valley and are forging ahead toward another exercise in self-destruction.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Won't someone defend middle class?

When will the world discover there is no sense in trying to kill the middle class?

The Soviets and the Red Chinese managed to get rid of the "middle condition of men," the unforeseen result being that they are now dependent on wheat and technology from bourgeois countries.

Mexico solved its problems by permitting the middle class to refurbish itself as a constituent element of the so-called Party of Revolutionary Institutions.

Salvador Allende sought to impose socialism on the shopkeepers and truckdrivers of Chile, and is now a corpse because he assumed he had a mandate he never actually had.

Fidel Castro still manages to stay on top in Cuba, but his country has become parasitical on the Soviet Union, which in turn is asking the Capitalistic Occidental Oil Co. to develop its resources of natural gas. As for the underdeveloped islands of the Caribbean, the ones that have been revolting against the middle-class tourist trade are in a most parlous condition. The murders on the island of St. Croix have so hurt the business of attracting tourists that the Virgin Islands governor, Dr. Melvin H. Evans, had to fly post-haste to New York to youth wing from locking them in an ideological straitjacket.

IN AN ODD SENSE, the British Labor Party is in the same bind as the Democrats. The farther left the locus of power in the party moves, the greater are the chances of its defeat in the electorate as a whole. Indeed, Labor leader Harold Wilson recently gave a quiet burial to some left-wing resolutions passed by the party's annual conference, particularly one calling for the nationalization of 21 industries.

On the Continent, the history of the German Social Democrats (SPD) is equally instructive. Until the late 50s, the SPD was essentially a sect, but then, in a remarkable conversion from religion to politics, it adopted a new program abandoning Marxism. Today Willy Brandt is plagued by his own McGovernites, who managed to pick up about a third of the seats on the SPD's national executive and are demanding a revival of the old-time religion.

Their biggest supporters are, of course, the Christian Democrats, who know that if the SPD regained its sectarian purity, the conservatives would be in power for the rest of the century.

With this in mind, I sometimes wonder who is really behind that Democratic Charter. A paranoic instinct says "CREEP," but then common sense intervenes. No one at CREEP had that much political savvy.

Charter comes from a group of scholars, the most notable being James MacGregor Burns, who have for years deplored the disorganized character of the American party system and argued for centralized organizations patterned on British and European parliamentary parties.

In Britain, the argument runs, the party adopts a program and enforces it on candidates — if the latter won't accept instruction, they get bounced off the ticket. The consequence of this fine, rational system is that the British voter, when he chooses among Conservatives, Laborites or Liberals, knows what he is selecting.

The interesting aspect of this position is that 25 years ago, when I first began arguing with Jim Burns about it, it made a great deal more sense than it does today. In the post-World War II period, British parties were highly organized: the Labor Party, for example, cleaned out a number of Members of Parliament because of their fellow-traveling with the Communists. But in the subsequent years, British parties have become far less tightly disciplined.

At the moment the Labor Party is bitterly divided over British membership in the Common Market, the Tories have a troublesome Powell faction, and the Liberals, who have recently been riding high, are desperately trying to prevent their bill can be cut somewhat. But the Bermuda run has no such offset.

The U.S. is getting kicked around for allegedly exploiting the less fortunate nations. But Greeks and Norwegians own the cruise ships. A young Italian out of Genoa, working on a Norwegian-owned ship such as the Sea Venture, is able to save in seven years what it took his father 40 years to put aside.

Like the 19th century New England farm boys who made enough out of a few voyages to the West Indies to buy land of their own, young Italians get enough out of the sea in a short time to set up in business for themselves.

So who does the "exploiting"? It is the U.S. middle class that pays the bills for other people's successes.

And, as Chile's Allende should have known, it is the middle class everywhere that plays Atlas to the world.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I talked to a cattleman at the Farm Science Review and he said, "What did the market do today?" and I replied, "Lower".

He shook his head and said, "Well, it looks like they're doing it to us".

He was referring to government manipulation of livestock farming, resulting in what took place in livestock marketing this week. This same farmer and I then had speculated about the situation at the Buckeye Beef Show in July and what we feared has come to pass.

Putting it bluntly, livestock producers have taken a beating this week and as we look back the only consolation they have is that the situation would be worse than it is if the industry had not made the innovative move to launch into custom slaughtering during the freeze.

The continual drop in livestock prices this week is a bitter pill to swallow when the producer realizes that it was carefully planned. The administration promised the boycotting-consumers lower meat prices and it deliberately set about to do the job.

It took planning, time and some strong-arming but the job was done. The sad part is that it was done without regard to the short-term harm they were inflicting on the livestock farmers and the long-term harm they were inflicting on the business.

Livestock farmers are not happy, and this will naturally effect their decisions to produce in the future. The best thing that can happen right now, for the good of all concerned, is that the retailers will finally start passing on the lower prices to consumers and sell out the low priced product to meat-starved consumers at an unprecedented rate.

This will empty the channels of cheap meat and re-create the demand that will be necessary to stabilize prices again and restore confidence in livestock farmers to put in feeders and start building toward a future market.

This will only be done if government rein — forces faith and confidence in farmers by pledging a "hands off" attitude toward the farming industry. Until they do this, they're going to find it difficult to encourage farmers to engage in "all out" production that economists say is so necessary to our rapidly expanding economy.

Stay with your boat or canoe in the event it capsizes, says the division of watercraft of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. Rescue planes and boats can more easily locate the accident by looking for a boat rather than for individuals, and the boater who tries to swim to shore greatly increases the risk of drowning.

"AND WHAT DOES CONGRESS INTEND TO DO ABOUT MY SUNDAYS?"

Hal Boyle . . . 30 years of column-writing

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty years isn't much in the life of a mountain or a Methuselah, but it is quite a chunk out of the span of an ordinary man.

After three decades of doing anything, he is likely to want to pause for a deep breath, and review what he has accomplished.

That's the landmark peak — or is it a rutted ravine? — where I stand right now. I have been writing a newspaper column for 30 years this month. Leaning upon my hoe for a moment in this prosey vineyard, I try to see what all this tilling has amounted to.

Judging it purely in terms of quantity, it isn't unimpressive. The more than 7,600 columns I have written in the last 30 years total almost four million words, slightly more than four times the life output of William Shakespeare.

I do not mean by this comparison to belittle the Bard. Touch typing might not have helped his style at all.

What I would rather ponder is what effect my four million words have had upon the human race. In sum, I am afraid, very little.

I haven't freed mankind noticeably of its ancient sinswar, greed, poverty and ingratitude, on the other hand, have I been able to introduce mankind to a new form of innocent pleasure, particularly one that would cheer the lot of the middle-aged and the elderly.

Of course, this failure isn't altogether my fault. I can say with some justification that if mankind had simply heeded my advice, it would be in a helluva sight better shape than it is now. But who can get anybody's ear today with sound advice? Neither scolding columnists nor scolding parents. The public is but a vaster child.

In fairness to myself, however, I would like to point out a few of my achievements that have not been entirely overlooked. Did I not defend motherhood when others were blaming it for the population explosion? Was I not endlessly industrious in pointing out the continuing menace of poisonous snakes? When others were jeering women's liberation, was I not foremost in proclaiming the right of ladies to smoke cigars in public?

Brief be those withered laurels on my brow, I claim them as my own.

Although it is hard to catalogue what I accomplished in 30 years at the typewriter, it is much easier to list what those years did to me.

First, they robbed me of four-fifths of my hair and three-fourths of my teeth.

Second, they enlarged my hatred of ignorance, stupidity, falsehood and aimless malice.

Third, they eradicated my juvenile cynicism and replaced it with an abiding faith in the worth of most people.

Fourth, they flowered my heart with wonder at all the wounded and wonderful things that happen in this wonderful but wounded world.

All in all, writing a column for 30 years is pretty much like shoveling coal in hell: the most you can hope for is to make everybody feel just a little bit warmer.

Good drinking water is a must for poultry.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Neighbors lose sleep to chained dog

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors just returned from a two-week vacation and I hope they had a good time because now I need one.

They left their dog CHAINED in the front yard! Another neighbor agreed to feed him daily, which was the only time the dog was quiet. The rest of the time he barked.

The first night, my husband got up at 4 a.m. to ask the owners to please take the dog inside, only to find there was no one home! The next day we found out the dog owners would be gone for two weeks! We nearly flipped.

Abby, if they couldn't find someone to keep the dog, they should have put it in a kennel.

They are home now, thank heavens, but what do you think of people who would keep the whole neighborhood up with a barking dog for two weeks?

NERVES ON END
DEAR NERVES: What happened to you shouldn't happen to a dog. And what happened to that dog shouldn't happen to a dog, either. You should have immediately notified your local humane society.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your reply to the girl who resented having a male physician give her a breast and pelvic examination. She said she wanted to remain chaste for her husband. You said an examination of that kind would in no way violate her chastity.

I disagree with you. I am no prude, but I place a high value on the privacy of my body, and I do not care to share it with anyone other than the man I marry. A male physician is no different from any other man, and I wonder how many husbands would allow their wives to go to a male gynecologist if they knew how intimately their wives would be touched and examined.

I have heard the argument that male doctors see hundreds of female patients a month, so a woman doesn't have to feel ashamed, but since when does frequency alone justify an action?

There is only one female physician in Terre Haute, and I go to her for my annual physical. I feel strongly that we women have a right to protect our intimacy, and should not be treated like children by male physicians.

P.J.
DEAR P.J.: It is indeed your right to select a female physician if you wish, but a male gynecologist has about as much erotic feelings while examining female patients as an electrician has when he's looking for a loose connection.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new one for you. Our son wants to be married this Christmas, and something has come up which prompts me (his father) to ask your advice.

When our son and his girl friend decided on a wedding date, they immediately told the bride's parents of their intentions. To their surprise, her parents said they were not interested in funding the affair. My son became upset and decided to go ahead and have a wedding even if he had to pay for it himself.

Our question: Should the bride's parents be invited or not? And if we invite them, should they be accorded all the honors and privileges of the bride's parents?

We, the groom's family, say no. Our future daughter-in-law says she wants her parents to get the full treatment even though they aren't paying for anything.

What is your opinion?

GROOM'S FATHER
DEAR FATHER: If the bride's parents are not funding the wedding because they have no funds, and your son is willing to foot the bill, then they should be given the full treatment. If they refuse to finance the wedding because they disapprove of the marriage, you may not have to worry about their presence at all. Arrange for a meeting with them and get the facts.

Religion courses in schools pushed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A big, new push is developing to get teaching about religion restored to public school education in this country.

The drive is coming in two arenas, both among educators and church people out in the field, and in the halls of Congress.

There, the effort took on new dimensions last week when the U.S. Catholic Conference called for a constitutional amendment permitting both religious instruction under private auspices and also prayer in public schools.

The move has sparked debate in religious circles, and some opposition. Until it came, the issue in Congress had been largely confined in recent years to repeatedly defeated proposals to allow "voluntary" or "nondenominational" prayers in schools.

About 30 such proposals — seven in the Senate and 23 in the House — are again up for consideration.

However, broader action now is gathering momentum in educational circles to get courses "about" religion into public school curricula as an essential part of a well-rounded education.

Marriage vows exchanged in St. Colman

Miss Martha Pero became the bride of Robert Talbott at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 20. The Rev. Fr. Richard Connelly performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar with vases of yellow and dark red mums, in St. Colman Catholic Church. The pews were marked with gold ribbon and fall leaves.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pero of Snowhill Rd. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Talbott of Powell are the parents of the bridegroom.

Dan VanDyke presented a one-half hour of nuptial organ music.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white delustered polyester satin A-line dress with neckline and cuffs of appliqued lace and seed pearls and full sleeves gathered into wide cuffs. The deep pleat in the back fell into a chapel length train. Her mantilla veil of silk illusion was edged in lace over a satin headpiece. She carried a cascade of yellow, red and gold mums with Mexican wood roses.

Mrs. Joseph Del Tedesco of Arlington, Va., sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a rose-orange crepe formal length dress with empire waist trimmed with floral braid, full gathered skirt and long full sleeves with braid at the cuffs. She carried a single orange rose.

The bridesmaid, Miss Susie Pero, and junior bridesmaids, Dedee and Kitty Pero, all sisters of the bride, wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor. The bridesmaid wore a gold crepe dress and carried a single yellow rose. The junior bridesmaids wore multi-colored floral chiffon dresses of gold and orange, with empire waists, long full gathered skirts and long full sleeves gathered at the wrists. They each carried a fireside basket filled with yellow, red and gold mums.

Dick Talbott of Columbus, brother of the groom, served as best man. Gene Talbott, of Columbus, another brother, was the usher.

Mrs. Pero chose for her daughter's wedding an oriental long princess style gown of orange, gold and black cotton satin with high collar, and a corsage of yellow and bronze mums and small wood flowers. The groom's mother wore a Thai emerald green silk gown with high collar, princess style slit-skirt with sash trimmed with gold fringe. She, too, wore a corsage of yellow and bronze mums and wood flowers.

Mrs. W.W. Montgomery, Austin, Tex., grandmother of the bride, wore a similar corsage.

three-tiered wedding cake topped with white bells and trimmed with yellow and orange roses encircled by greenery.

The new Mrs. Talbott, a graduate of Miami Trace High School and Nationwide School of Cosmetology, is employed as a hair stylist for Lazarus in Columbus. Her husband, a graduate of Ohio State University in business administration, is presently a student in the College of Dentistry, OSU.

Roscoe Village topic for DKG meeting

Fifty four members of the Delta Kappa Gamma assembled at the Terrace Lounge for a dinner-meeting Monday evening. Mrs. Lee Mossbarger gave the invocation preceding the dinner. Miss Helen Hutson, president, conducted a brief business meeting.

During the meeting, Miss Jane Durant, a retired teacher and charter member of Delta Kappa Gamma, was honored. A tribute to her long teaching career, and a thumb-nail sketch of her life was written and presented by Mrs. Ralph Child.

Mrs. Pat Brown, public relations director for Roscoe Village Foundation, a restored canal town on the Ohio-Erie Canal in Coshocton, Ohio, was guest speaker. She was introduced by Mrs. Karl Harper, program chairman. Her topic was "Roscoe Village Restoration," and her lecture was illustrated with slides depicting the history and progress of Roscoe Village. Mrs. Brown was accompanied by Mrs. Sandy Gintner, her assistant. Both wore dresses of 1830 vintage.

Mrs. Brown has held her position since Oct., 1970, and was a free-lance writer and dramatists prior to her association with the project. She has experience in amateur theatre, including theatre-in-the-round, both on stage and behind the scenes. She is a member of the Ohio Poetry Society, and received an award for her poem "Tomboy" in 1969.

She told of how the arrival of the first canal boat in 1830, the Monticella, signified the birth of a new era for the little town of Roscoe, formerly named Caldersburg. It was the fourth largest wheat-depot in Ohio. Buildings that once housed businesses shipping on the canal still contain shops which have been restored and gardens.

Canal rides on the Monticello II towed by horses provide a scenic trip on the canal. Trolley rides to triple locks are available to tourists. Gift shops are also nearby and other historic sites. The Village is open all year, with no admission fee.

Get-acquainted party held

The Zeta Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held a get-acquainted party in the home of Mrs. Jim Dunn, Staunton.

An open meeting is planned for Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jeff Pollard.

Guests and members present were Mrs. Gary Roush, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Bill Woods, Mrs. Dan Montgomery, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Dale Wilson, Mrs. Dale Lowe, Mrs. Robert Clary, Mrs. Roger Snyder, Mrs. Michael Riggilo, Mrs. Chuck Bowersox, Mrs. Ernie Gettelfinger, Mrs. Frank Giacomini, Mrs. Roger Pemberton, Mrs. Rick Kelley, Mrs. Coldiron, Mrs. Jud Thompson, Mrs. Skip Hamilton and Mrs. Fred Pitzer.

Little did Christopher Columbus know in 1492 when he pointed his three little ships in this direction that he would discover a new world, destined to become the greatest land on earth. A land where opportunity abounded, a land where a man could be free, could rise from ignorance to wisdom, from poverty to wealth. WSHS MAJORETTES — The majorettes at Washington Senior High School this year are, front row, Jeriann Runnels, Denise Haitcock and Mary Ann Wilson; second row, Chris Black, Bev Applegate and Diane Polk.

WSHS twirlers deserve credit

By JULIA FOSTER
The Washington Senior High School band has been doing a fantastic job this year with their specialties like good music and precision dance steps, but the band has a line of beauties in front of it and these six gals work just as hard on twirls and steps to go with the music.

The majorettes this year are Denise Haitcock, Diane Polk, Chris Black, Mary Ann Wilson, Jeriann Runnels and featured twirler Bev Applegate.

The six girls attended camp at Rio Grande College in August. They practiced hard and brought back some fine routines in addition to making up many of their own to go along with the music. These girls practice each day and get better and better. Their timing of twirling, tossing and marching are so precise it is remarkable. And their dance steps are lively too.

The majorettes really sacrifice a lot especially on those cold Friday nights when they have to march and perform in pre-game and halftime ceremonies for the entertainment of the football crowds. Being a majorette is not an easy job.

Seniors of week

By CHERIE WILSON
The first featured senior of the week is Mileah Renee Hamulak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hamulak, 1028 Center St.

Mileah's subjects at WSHS are American Government, ROTC II, Office Practice and COE. She works a half day at the Extension Service Office. She is a member of COE and Senior Y-Teens.

She likes bicycling and stock car racing, but is undecided about her future following graduation. Her comments were, "I have enjoyed my high school years and I am looking forward to the future. I urge all the underclassmen to make the most of it."

Danny E. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Jones, 523 Campbell St., is the second featured senior.

Danny is enrolled in Social Psychology, ROTC II and DE II and is employed through the DE program at Marting Manufacturing. Danny, who likes swimming and hunting, is captain of the ushers and is a member of DECA. He plans to join the U.S. Navy after graduation.

"It's great to be a senior and I'm looking forward to the future," Danny commented.

FTA selects new leaders

By JULIA FOSTER
Future Teachers of America is an educational organization for high school students who are planning to be teachers or in some way work with young children following graduation. The organization also gives the student a better understanding of how teachers feel.

The Future Teachers of America chapter at WSHS installed new officers at a potluck dinner held recently in the high school cafeteria. Officers for the 1973-74 school year are president Denise Miller, vice-president Jenny Hollar, secretary Julia Foster, treasurer Diane Lewis, historian

Jeriann Runnels and program director Mary Ann Wilson. These students will make an effort to plan interesting and informative programs and field trips for the group so that they may see different types of teaching methods.

For example, they may be able to see the different grade levels of teaching and the different types of students such as mentally retarded and handicapped.

Fourteen members of the club have volunteered to give service to a project at Eastside Elementary School. In this project, members go to the school to act as teachers aides during one of their study halls. This will give members first-hand knowledge of the teaching profession.

Computerized registers can do almost anything

By DENNIS STAPLETON

That new sound that the customers of Hidy's Food Market, 1151 Columbus Ave., are hearing is the transistorized tabulations of new computerized cash registers.

Actually, the new sound is almost no sound at all. The only evidence that these new machines are working is a soft hum accompanied by a small beep everytime one of the register keys is depressed - plus the bright red digital figures that are flashed on the visual screen.

Ron Hidy, market owner said that the majority of his customers were curious until they understood how the machines operate.

The new computerized registers, costing in the area of $5,000 each were only the second ones delivered in the state when Hidy's received them. Tarry's Markets in Columbus was the posiarchs have met at the Sulky. Meetings are held in the Country Club, one of the restaurants and occasionally at a summer home or lakeside cottage of one of the members. The places for the dinner meetings are selected by the hosts. Hosts for the Thursday meeting were Hugh Wilson, Dr. Hugh W. Payton and Walter H. Seifried.

Hamburger back on agency menu

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a month without hamburger, Agriculture Department employees found it back on their cafeteria menu this week.

"I don't know how long it will last this time," one cafeteria worker said. "But we think there's enough now."

The cafeteria suspended serving hamburgers in August when supplies became short and prices skyrocketed.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The World at War," an extraordinarily ambitious British documentary about World War II and its origins, recently began appearing on U.S. television. Unfortunately, it's seen in but 10 cities right now.

The series will start running next January in another 10 cities, but word-of-mouth about this hour-long program may well increase the number somewhat.

I hope it does, provided all the "World at War" segments are as excellent as the two I've already seen. If they're typical, this new show, produced by Thames Television, deserves a far wider audience than it now has.

The 26 segments, all narrated by Laurence Olivier, start with Hitler's rise to power in 1933 and end with a postwar summing up that asks what the global bloodshed, destruction and suffering really accomplished.

The series examines the war both militarily and politically, using newsreels and rarely-seen combat footage painstakingly compiled from British, American, French, Italian and Japanese archives.

The program isn't a broadbrush look at the war, but rather a detailed, step-by-step analysis of the war's various phases, each segment written by an expert in that particular phase.

One segment scheduled this week, for example, is devoted exclusively to the political instability and military ineptitude that led to the fall of France in 1940.

Future episodes study the air war against Germany, the Italian campaign, the war in Burma, the Pacific war and so on. The 20th segment, simply entitled, "Genocide: 1933-1945," is the story of Hitler's concentration camps and his ruthless extermination of six million Jews.

All of it is a grim, still-shocking history lesson that should be studied again, particularly by young viewers for whom the war is only a vague, quickly forgotten few chapters in a textbook.

The 10 cities in which "World at War" now appears are Columbus, Ohio; Washington, D.C.; New York; Phoenix, Ariz.; Hartford, Conn.; San Antonio and Houston, Tex.; Las Vegas, Nev.; Los Angeles, and Portland, Ore., according to spokesmen for the series.

They say the series starts next January in Cincinnati, Ohio; Kansas City, Mo.; Jacksonville, Miami and Orlando, Fla.; Denver, Colo.; Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Louisville, Ky.; Chicago and Cleveland, Ohio.

If you live in any of the 20 cities, you'll need to check your local TV listings for the right hour and date of the program. But try to watch the series. It promises to be well worth the time.

Special session a Gilligan coup?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It looks at the moment as if Gov. John J. Gilligan pulled a political coup in calling a special session of the General Assembly for Oct. 22.

Gilligan wants Ohio's election laws changed. He wants sharply defined spending limits for candidates. He wants to liberalize registration laws to permit door-to-door canvassing for registrations.

This goal looks to most politicians as politically popular in the sensitive aftermath of Watergate. But, even if it isn't, the Republican-dominated Senate faces a dilemma.

If the Senate doesn't give Gilligan what he wants, the governor predictably will blame Republicans, possibly claiming they don't want to open up the election process to everyone.

If the Senate does give Gilligan what he wants, Republicans can hardly blame the legislation on the governor.

In other words, Gilligan can take credit or share the blame.

Republicans may be damned if they don't and in no position to fight back if they do.

Respect and self-respect lacking in litterbugs

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Roger Powers of Keep America Beautiful delivered the speech to the opening session of the Keep Europe Beautiful Conference on Littering here.

He said, "If we can solve the human behavioral problem of littering, we may be able to find answers to many other social issues."

"Littering is a symptom of a great malady affecting all nations. Littering shows a person's indifference, lack of respect and even insecurity."

Was cheaper for Mexicans

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — The penny slots allowing 12 minutes of parking have been removed from the parking meters at this town on the Mexican border. A Mexican five-centavo piece, worth only a third as much, fitted nicely.

Only nickels and dimes are now accepted.

But, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, a Republican, has attacked some of Gilligan's election reform proposals, particularly door-to-door registration canvassing.

"Tombstone voting and other potential frauds could result," said Brown. "Registration is the greatest weapon we have against fraud."

Another Brown—Atty. Gen. William J. Brown—may have done himself a disfavor by refusing to allow Secretary of State Brown to appoint his own counsel in a purely political legal dispute, some political observers from both parties have speculated.

The dispute involves a request by Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, to the U.S. District Court. He wants to overturn a Senate decision that puts his seat up for grabs in 1974, midway through his four-year term.

The action is lodged against Secretary of State Brown, who is required to set up the machinery for the 26th District election.

Former Sen. Robin T. Turner, a Marion Republican, brought suit in the Ohio Supreme Court that resulted in the Senate's action. Turner claimed ballot names were not properly rotated.

By law, Atty. Gen. Brown represents all state officeholders, but in the Turner-Slagle issue the two political parties are financing the battle.

"How can the Democratic attorney general properly represent me in a legal action where both his party and mine are involved?" asked the secretary of state.

Six SCOL teams open title fuss

WCH entertains winless Eagles; MT faces final non-league task

Six of the seven South Central Ohio League football teams will be launching the 46th league championship bash tonight.

While six of the teams are hoping to grab an early lead in the SCOL pennant chase, Miami Trace's Panthers will be finishing preparations for its league opener next week.

WASHINGTON C.H., ranked second in The Associated Press' Class AA high school football poll, is heavily-favored to capture the SCOL title this fall, but at least three other teams are being seriously considered in the championship picture.

Lion back leading SCOL scoring race

Chuck Wilson, the Washington C.H. Blue Lions' sweet-stepping senior tailback, holds a comfortable lead in the South Central Ohio League scoring race, according to statistics compiled today.

The hard-running 6-foot-0, 181-pounder is hoping to defend the SCOL scoring championship he won a year ago by stacking up an impressive total of 122 points.

Wilson has scored two touchdowns in each of Washington C.H.'s three games this fall and has a total of 40 points heading into tonight's SCOL opener with Madison Plains.

Fayette County football players are starting to dominate this year's scoring as they have done in past seasons. Five of the top seven scoring leaders are either from Washington C.H. or Miami Trace.

Miami Trace junior tight end Jay Mossbarger is tied for second in the scoring race with 18 points on the basis of three touchdown passes he caught in the Panthers' win over Columbus Ready last week. Circleville running back Eddy Richter also has 18 points, while Miami Trace's Tom Riley has 15 and Larry Howell, of Washington C.H., owns 14 points.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer's Lions with a lopsided 90-0 scoring margin in its first three games, may have their best team in two decades. The Blue Lions last went unbeaten (9-0) in 1952.

The Lions, who have chalked up three consecutive shutouts, will be entertaining a winless Madison Plains team at 8 p.m. tonight at Gardner Park Stadium.

Madison Plains along with Greenfield McClain and Hillsboro are hoping to crack three-game nosedives.

While the Blue Lions are launching their league schedule, head coach Fred

Zechman's Miami Trace Panthers will be traveling to Chillicothe for its last non-league encounter of the season.

Miami Trace, a winner in two of its three non-league outings, can complete its preparations for the league season with a nifty 3-1 record, providing the Panthers can stop the Cavaliers.

Chillicothe snapped an eight-game tailspin that spanned two seasons with a 14-0 win over Greenfield last week. Head coach Kern McKee's Cavaliers are 1-2 on the season after bowing to Jackson and Washington C.H.

THE SEVEN SCOL teams have posted a lowly 7-14 record against non-league competition so far this season. Last year the league teams registered a 13-15-1 mark.

Elsewhere in tonight's SCOL action, Greenfield will be visiting always-tough Circleville and Wilmington entertains Hillsboro.

Greenfield has experienced its problems under rookie head coach Fred Brisker as the Tigers have scored only six points in three outings and have been blanked in their last two games. Circleville, the defending SCOL champion, will be hoping to end a two-game skid.

Wilmington, under a new head coach Ron Wilt, will be looking for its second win of the season when Hillsboro comes calling tonight. New head coach Mike Doyle's Indians are winless, but show signs of jelling in outings against Unioto and Erlanger, Ky.

Pirates tumble full game off East pace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates offered Philadelphia's Bob Boone a free pass but he refused to go along for the ride.

Instead, he helped hand them a 3-2, 13-inning defeat Thursday night that dropped Pittsburgh a full game behind the front-running New York Mets, who were idle, in the tight National League East.

"I always look for something to hit on an intentional walk," said Boone, whose single on a pitch that was supposed to be intentionally bad, helped build the winning Philadelphia run in the 13th.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis blanked Chicago 2-0 and the game between Atlanta and Los Angeles was rained out.

In the American League, Nolan Ryan broke Sandy Koufax's single season strikeout record by notching No. 383 in the 11th inning of California's 5-4 victory over Minnesota; Detroit beat Baltimore 5-2; New York shut out Milwaukee 2-0 and Chicago nipped Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings.

The last batter Nolan Ryan will face in the 1973 season was also the hard-throwing right hander's 383rd strikeout victim of the season which broke Sandy Koufax's single season strikeout record.

ning, the 26-year-old Ryan ran into some trouble.

He developed a cramp in his hamstring muscle in the ninth inning and had gone 11 batters without a strikeout since whiffing Brye in the eighth.

"I've got enough left to strike out one guy," he told Bobby Winkles when the Angel manager visited the mound in the top of the 11th before the California scored a run in the bottom of the 11th to win 5-4.

So he summoned up the energy for three high inside fastballs to Rich Reese and the Twins batter became Ryan's record-setting 383rd strikeout of the year, Ryan's 16th strikeout of the game.

"I feel like my season is over," said Ryan, who was supposed to pitch in the Angels final game so he could set the record. "Now I'm just gonna speculate."

Cardinals 2, Cubs 0
Reggie Cleveland was very economical. He breezed through the Cub line-up, facing the minimum 27 batters while allowing only single.

White Sox 3, Royals 2
Buddy Bradford's solo home run in the bottom of the 10th lifted the White Sox to a 3-2 victory over Kansas City.

Tigers 5, Orioles 2
Dick Sharon's three run double and Joe Coleman's sixhitter gave the Tigers a 5-2 triumph over Baltimore and snapped the Orioles six-game winning streak.

Tennessee meets Auburn in top SEC grid bout

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Battle has lost five games since he became coach at Tennessee in 1970. Three of those losses have come at the expense of Auburn.

Battle and his ninth-ranked Volunteers get another shot at Auburn, currently ranked 11th, this Saturday. "All we've been thinking for a long time is beat Auburn," said senior offensive guard Gene Killian. "I don't want to leave without beating them."

Both teams currently are undefeated after two games, but Tennessee holds an 399.5-261.5 edge in average yards gained per game. The Tigers however have been stingier on defense, allowing only 195.5 yards a game compared to the Vols' 310.

The Tennessee-Auburn contest will probably have an important effect on the Southeastern Conference race, but it is the game between No. 1 Southern California and eighth-ranked Oklahoma Saturday night, which could affect who will be called the top team in the nation next week.

Southern Cal, 2-0, has not allowed a touchdown yet, but will be up against a Sooner offense which Trojan Coach John McKay said "runs the fastest wishbone I have seen."

And although the Trojans are undefeated in 19 straight games, McKay warned that "there is little difference between this team and the team of two years ago that beat us in Norman."

While Southern Cal has drawn stiff opposition this week, many other contenders seem to have it easy.

Second-ranked Nebraska will be hoping that a victory over Wisconsin will springboard them back into the top spot they held before the Trojans.

Third-ranked Ohio State hopes to create a good impression against Texas Christian, while No. 4 Michigan entertains the Naval Academy, No. 5 Alabama is at Vanderbilt and Penn State, No. 6, hosts Iowa.

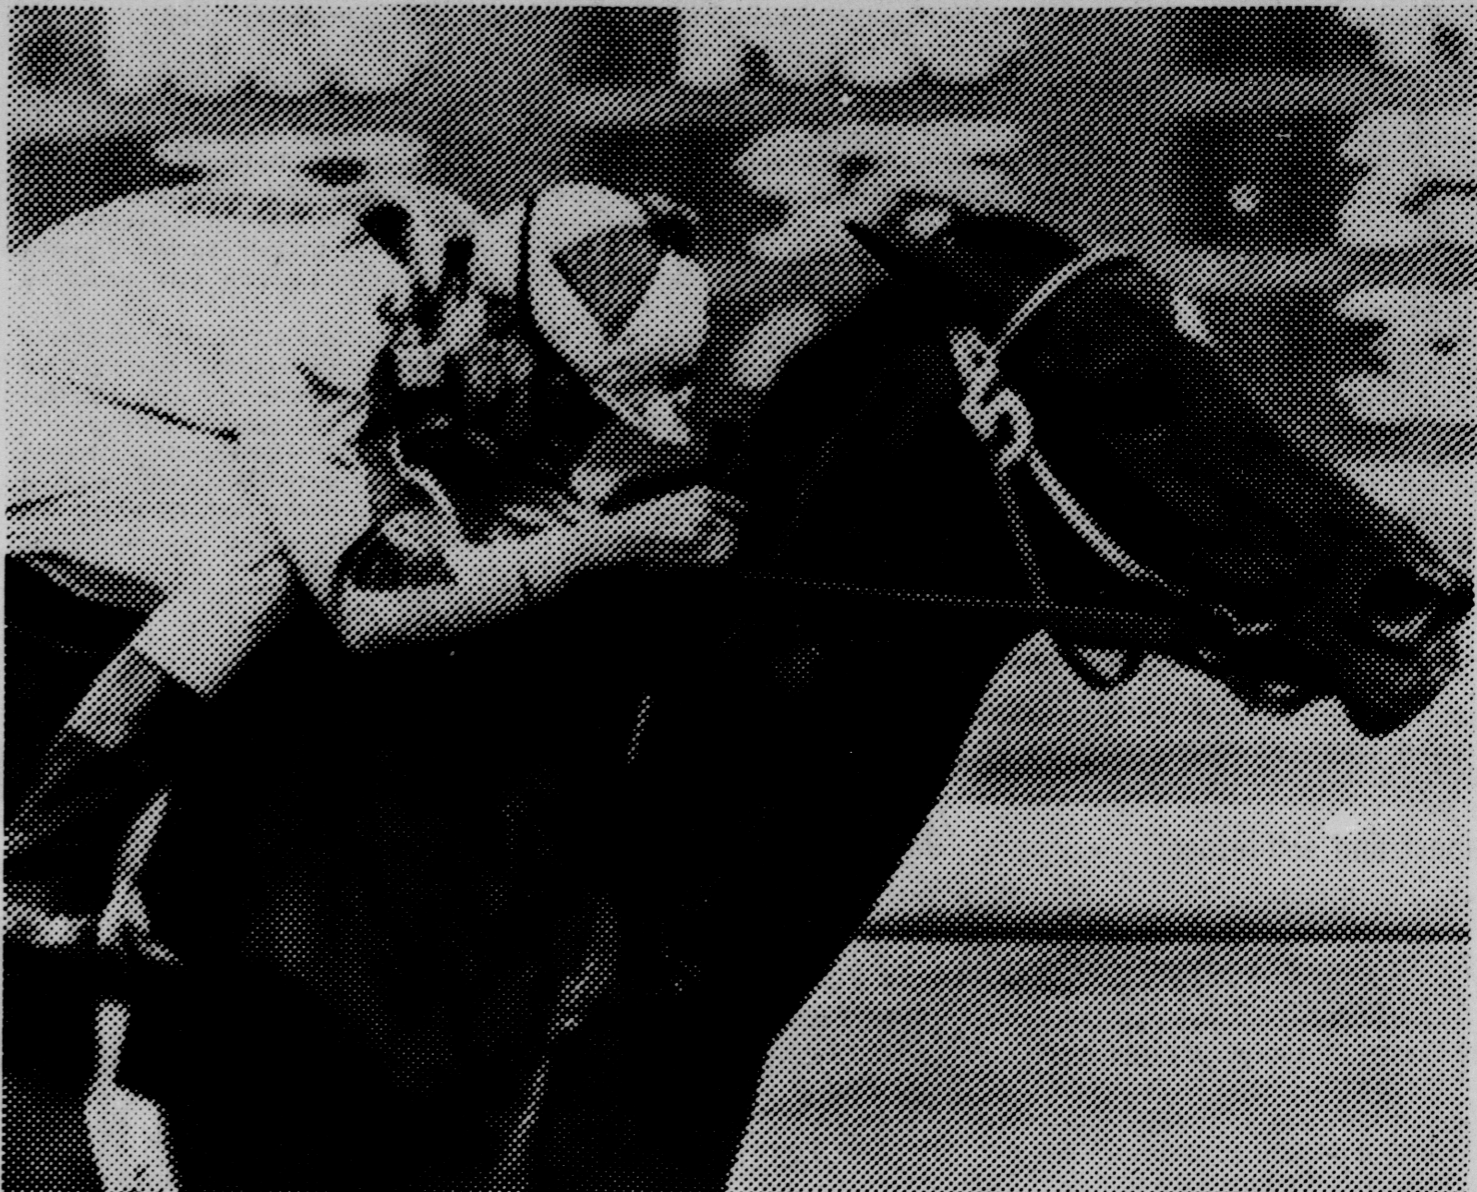

Notre Dame, ranked No. 7, take on the Purdue Boilermakers in a nationally televised game.

Rice will be playing Southwest Conference rival, Louisiana State University, ranked tenth, Southern Illinois is at twelfth-ranked Oklahoma State, and 13th-ranked Arizona State plays Colorado State, which has lost to the Sun Devils 11 straight times, the last three by scores of 79-7, 38-9 and 42-0.

Darrell Royal, coach of 14th-ranked Texas has had two things to worry about this week. His first worry is that Texas can rebound from a 20-15 opening loss to Miami. Royal's second worry is about this week's opponent, Texas Tech, which has been picked as the Longhorns' toughest opposition in the Southwest Conference.

Houston, ranked 15, will be at Memphis State, Florida, No. 16, will be at Mississippi State and 17th-ranked UCLA travels to Michigan State.

Miami, Fla., travels to Florida State, while North Carolina State, No. 19, plays at Georgia and Missouri, picked 20th, plays at North Carolina.

who spent the off days in a classroom 140 miles away, was one shy of the track record, but nearly doubled the mark of 68 winners for apprentice jockeys which was set in 1968.

OSU, Michigan and Illinois favored in college contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nationally third-ranked Ohio State, No. 4 Michigan and surprising Illinois are favored to maintain their perfect records. But Big Ten football prestige otherwise is on the spot in Saturday's 10-game round against outside opposition.

Only Ohio State, picked by 29 points over Texas Christian, and Michigan, tabbed by 28 over Navy, are clear cut choices as other conference clubs look horns with the likes of second-ranked Nebraska, sixth-rated Penn State and No. 7 Notre Dame.

Illinois, after defeating Indiana and California despite key player injuries, is favored by nine points as the Illini and independent West Virginia match 2-0 records at Champaign, Ill.

Northwestern (1-1) and Indiana (0-2)

face Pittsburgh and Kentucky in home games rated as tossups, while Minnesota (1-1) visits Kansas of the Big Eight as a 7 1/2-point underdog.

Otherwise, the Big Ten seems unlikely to improve its record against outside opposition after an opening 4-6 mark last Saturday.

Lion Cubs rout Unioto

Panther frosh whack WCH

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Writer

The Miami Trace freshman team capitalizing on fumbles and using the specialty teams to set up excellent field position, whacked the Washington C.H. freshman team 34-6 at Miami Trace Field Thursday.

At the same time, the Washington C.H. junior high team, under the command of coach Roger Mickle, rolled easily over Unioto at Gardner Park Stadium 42-0.

Taking advantage of the mistakes of Washington C.H., Miami Trace scored twice in the first quarter, and once in the remaining three quarters, while only allowing Washington C.H. a single score in the third quarter.

IN THE first quarter the Panthers recovered a fumble on Washington C.H.'s 35-yard line. Six plays later, tailback Danny Gifford tallied from four yards out and with quarterback Neil Spears running for the extras Miami Trace led 8-0.

Then again, in the first quarter, Miami Trace put together a 45-yard drive capping it with a five-yard scoring run by Tom Everett. The extra point attempt failed and Miami Trace led 14-0 after the first quarter.

In the second quarter Everett returned a Washington C.H. punt to the 35-yard line. Two plays later, Spears connected with Gifford for a 20-yard touchdown pass. The extras failed and Miami Trace led at halftime, 20-0.

The third quarter started out much as the first half as Miami Trace put together an eight-play drive with Bill Warnock scoring from three yards out. The extra point attempt again failed.

Finally, Washington C.H. put together a 17-play drive and scored by a pass to Mark Burke from the six-yard line. The extras failed, and Miami Trace led 26-6 after three quarters.

In the fourth quarter, on the second play of the series, Everett boot-legged around the end and galloped 47 yards for a score. Spears ran for the extras, and eventually the final score.

Miami Trace totaled 249 yards while holding Washington C.H. to just 79 total yards. Coach Joe Henry reported that the whole team played a fine game and that excellent blocking opened the game up for Miami Trace.

The Miami Trace freshman go against Hillsboro next Thursday at Hillsboro while the Washington C.H. freshman travel to Greenfield.

MEANWHILE, the Washington C.H. junior high was having better luck, as they scored twice in the first quarter, twice in the second quarter, and once in both the third and fourth quarters.

In a game, with everyone of the Washington C.H. players seeing action, the Lion Cubs could do no wrong. Halfback Jeff Elliott scored four times with runs of 41, 27, 42 and a 68-yard punt return to lead the Blue Lions' devastating attack. Quarterback Devik Hargo also passed to Tony West for a 45-yard scoring play. Then if that wasn't enough, backup quarterback Tod Terrell tossed a 43-yard scoring pass to Larry Bennett. The extras were scored by West and Hargo on three different tries.

Mickle praised the whole team for a fine effort in which Unioto did not pick up one first down. Mickle said also that his team had some tremendous hits, more so than in any junior high game he has ever coached.

Washington C.H., now 2-0 on the season will host Greenfield next Thursday for their last home game of the season.

Aaron home run bid sidetracked by rain

ATLANTA (AP) — Third baseman Darrell Evans of the Atlanta Braves has an intense desire to see Hank Aaron's 713th career home run sail out of the park this season.

713? That's right. And, Evans has his reason.

"That's the only way we'll get in the Hall of Fame," Evans said Thursday night. "It sure would be very nice."

Evans is thinking about a feat never accomplished in major league baseball — three players on the same team hitting 40 home runs or more in a season.

Aaron, who now has 712 home runs and needs only two more to tie Babe Ruth's all-time record, has hit 39 this year and has only two more games in which to crack the 40 mark for the eighth time.

Evans smashed his 40th of the season Wednesday night. Second baseman Davey Johnson set the major league record for his position at Los Angeles last week when he belted No. 43, breaking a 51-year-old mark held by Rogers Hornsby at 42.

However, most of the baseball world is more interested in Aaron's chase of the immortal Ruth.

It was sidetracked Thursday night when Atlanta's game against the Los Angeles Dodgers was canceled by rain.

Members of this year's council are the following:

Seniors: Steve Hedges, Council president; Dave Persinger, vice-president; Barb Marvin, secretary; Scott Jenks, treasurer; Julie Frost, publicity chairman; Gary Cobb, class president, and Steve Deere.

Juniors: Darla Krupa, class president; Jomi Warner; Sandy McCoy; Reggie Roush; Toni McDonald; and Anita McFadden.

During this first meeting the Council discussed plans for the homecoming October 12, which it is in charge of. The theme is "Space Oddity."

Council President Steve Hedges commented, "Council will be more active this year than it has been in the past."

Hitler automobile back on block

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Adolf Hitler's car is back on the auction block again.

The black, armored-plated 1941 Mercedes will be auctioned off Oct. 8 as part of a sale of up to 100 antique and historical cars.

The car was sold earlier this year to its present owner, Earl Clark.

Introducing . . .

By DAWN SCHLICHTER

Miss Nancy Campbell, a 1969 graduate of Miami Trace, now teaches sophomore and junior English and senior composition classes at her alma mater. She also advises the Student Council and the Dramatic Arts Club.

Miss Campbell attended the Ohio State University and majored in English and psychology. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Ohio State. While in college she was active in many clubs, including Chimes, Mortar Board, and the Buckeye Band. She was president of the North Campus, and she served as a resident advisor in a dormitory.

She decided to come back to Miami Trace because she likes the community and the people, and she feels that she can become involved sooner than others might. Miss Campbell also commented that she thinks students

Audio-visual department outlines some new ideas

BY SUSAN THACKER

The audio-visual department at Miami Trace has some really good ideas for making classes more interesting. One of their goals is to be able to tape educational television and show the programs later in classes to which they would be relevant.

This is one of the ideas which Mr. Larry Stover, the new director of the A-V department, and his assistant, Mr. Paul Grim, hope to put into effect.

The newest piece of equipment, the video tape recorder, is already being used by the instrumental music department to tape the band's half-time performance at football games.

Many people do not realize how important the A-V department is to have more freedom than they did when she attended Miami Trace.

making classes have variety. The equipment must be kept in good working order and available at a few days' notice. In a school of this size that is not always easy.

This service probably would not be possible except for the cooperation of a few students who give up their study halls. They do a variety of jobs, including delivering equipment to teachers and later collecting it, operating the machines, and keeping everything in good working order.

The workers are Steve Hedges, Steve Tarbutton, Jerry Tuttle, Rick Gleadall, Don Davis, Lonnie Adams, Rick Yarger, Don Michael, Bret Gundlach, Mick Cottrill, Rocky Kinzer and Charles Gillespie.

GAA group eyes plans

By CAROL REX

The Miami Trace Girls' Athletic Association held its first meeting with Mrs. Lila Engle as the advisor and Mrs. Sandy Sowash assisting.

Ushers and officials to work at the football game were recruited and Mrs. Engle outlined some of this year's activities. Sports which will be offered this year are archery, golf, tennis, deck tennis, basketball, volleyball, gymnastics and tumbling, badminton, softball, and track. Other ideas for activities included slumber parties, skating parties, bike hikes, and swimming parties.

The girls also learned that they have been granted the use of the gym from 3-4 p.m. once a week. This is very different from past years and will be a boon to the girls' teams. There will be no night meetings unless a special activity is planned and announced.

MT bowling group meets

By LORA BROOKS

Twenty-six Miami Trace bowlers met at Bowland Lanes recently to begin the 1973-74 season.

A short meeting was held prior to regular bowling. At this time, the club, with advisor Mr. John Wedgewood, discussed the rules. After this, new officers were elected. Randy Reiber soon became accustomed to his new duties as president by presiding over the remainder of the meeting. Gary Williamson was elected vice-president, and Lora Brooks, secretary-treasurer.

Everyone picked a number at random and bowled on that lane. In a few weeks teams will be chosen and the competition will truly begin.

Any Miami Trace student who likes to have fun, whether you can bowl or not is welcome to come at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The Blood Pressure Racket

At carnivals, country fairs, and in shopping centers all over America, a new form of exploitation of the public is sprouting and luxuriating.

The new flourishing business is based on the curiosity many people feel about mystic blood pressure "numbers."

Dozen of people stand in line waiting to have their blood pressure read by a barker, a "nurse" or a solemn-looking bespectacled "medical authority."

After paying a dollar or so to these self-styled blood pressure authorities, people walk away, more than ever confused, and often terrified by the "over" and "under" two numbers they have been given.

There is a strange fascination about these numbers that have meaning only to the doctor.

Blood pressure numbers are only a fraction of the information that accumulates during a general physical examination. When all the information is compiled, then the blood pressure readings become a valuable index to the condition of the heart, the lungs, the kidneys, and the entire vascular system.

There are two blood pressure numbers. The first, the higher one, is called the systolic blood pressure. This measures the pressure in the blood vessels, especially the arteries at the time that the heart pumps blood into them.

The second, the lower number, is called the diastolic. This indicates the pressure in the arteries in between each beat of the heart.

A person walking away from the "numbers racket" may become anxious about the systolic number, without knowing that the diastolic number may be of even greater significance.

Another important reason why people should not fall into the trap of numbers is that most people develop a sudden rise of pressure when their blood pressure readings are taken by a stranger. The anxiety level becomes high, and the blood pressure sometimes skyrockets for a few moments.

Even when the blood pressure is taken by one's own doctor, the readings may be higher than normal until the patient is more relaxed in the doctor's office. Doctors know this, and make every effort to calm their patients prior to taking these readings.

And what do people do with their "numbers" when they are given to them by these dollar clerks? Can they evaluate them? Can they prescribe medicines for themselves? Do they return for future readings for comparison to see if their condition has improved?

Don't fall into a trap that may serve only to compound anxiety and confusion about your health.

It must be remembered that high blood pressure is not a disease. Rather it is an index of the general health.

Recent surveys show that many people unsuspiciously have high blood pressure and should be under surveillance and treatment with some of the many excellent drugs now available.

Bringing high blood pressure out of hiding is an excellent idea, but not by way of store front "scientists."

Jordan desert farming experiment successful

QASR HALLABAT, Jordan (AP) — The landscape near this desert village an hour's drive northwest of Amman is dusty scrub and brown rock but suddenly, like a mirage, a strip of leafy trees looms on the horizon.

It is a wind belt, protecting lush green fields from the strong winds which scour this area of King Hussein's kingdom. Powerful sprinklers are spewing water over fields of alfalfa. Overlooking a desert vista that runs down to the mud flats of Dawson's field, Revolution airport made famous by the Palestinian guerrillas in September 1970 when they blew up three jetliners there, stands Sherif Nasser Ben Jamil, the king's uncle and former commander in chief of Jordan's armed forces.

WHAT MAKES the dramatic transformation of a huge area of desert into farmland possible is a recently discovered network of underground rivers, fed from Jebel Druze, a mountain in southwest Syria.

The cost of preparing the land and installing the irrigation systems has been $125 per donum, most of which Nasser paid with his own money and long-term loans.

"We don't expect the government to give us cash to work the farm," he said. "But we do look to them for knowhow, assistance in drilling wells and providing pumps and tractors."

The Union Jack was Canada's official flag from 1763 to 1965.

Trade bill would restrain Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive trade bill tentatively approved by a House committee would give President Nixon broad powers to make trade deals with Japan and Europe but slap a stiff restraint on trade with the Soviets. The bill would give the President extensive power to raise or lower U.S. trade barriers for the trade deals to be negotiated next year, although not the nearly unrestricted power he asked. But it would prohibit U.S. trade concessions for the Soviets unless Nixon determines annually that they do not deny emigration for Jews and other citizens and that they do not impose exorbitant exit fees. The White House said Thursday the President hopes the bill can yet be "brought closer to, if not brought to" his request for the Soviet trade concessions with no ties.

Boiler explodes; 14 persons hurt

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Fourteen employees were reported injured, one critically, when a boiler exploded today at the Lorain Towel Supply Co. Firemen said the employees were showered with boiling water and broken glass when the main boiler at the back of the plant exploded, breaking several windows. Cause of the blast and other details were not available immediately.

But the demand for Soviet emigration reform is heavily co-sponsored in both the House and Senate and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., original author of it, predicted it will pass. Major provisions of the bill besides the Soviet trade concessions restraint would: —Authorize the President to lower U.S. tariffs on a sliding scale for trade deals. —Authorize the President to increase tariffs 20 per cent above present rates or to 50 per cent above the protectionist 1934 Smoot-Hawley level, whichever is highest. —Authorize the President for the first time to negotiate reduction of countries' nontariff barriers subject to Congress' veto. —Raise relief payments for workers who lose jobs because of foreign imports to an estimated maximum $170 a week from the present $111. —Authorize the President to take unrestricted action for 150 days to curb imports aggravating U.S. inflation, and to increase U.S. tariffs up to 15 per cent against imports hurting the U.S. balance of trade. After 150 days, Congress would have to decide whether to extend the authority for either of the special actions.

Red China seeks IMF membership

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Communist China's move toward membership in the International Monetary Fund and World Bank confronts the two organizations with a number of political, legal and economic issues. The way these issues are finally resolved could have a sizable impact on global trading patterns and perhaps open the door to direct Western aid to the People's Republic. Officials announced Thursday that Peking had made inquiries about membership in letters received Wednesday in Washington. An IMF official said the letters "certainly are a challenge to Taiwan's membership" in the two international financial organizations. Officials said it was not clear whether Red China actually wants to join at this time or is just harassing Chiang Kaishek's regime. But the matter was introduced Thursday at the annual meeting of the IMF when Tanzania, an East African nation that gets most of its aid from Peking, said that China should be admitted. If Peking does make formal application, one issue that would have to be decided is the same one the United Nations confronted when it admitted Communist China and kicked out Taiwan: which is the government of China, the Communists in Peking or the Nationalists in Taipei. Peking is sure to win that one. Membership in the IMF and the World Bank could facilitate China's trade with the West; its currency would probably be more widely used and China would find it easier to buy from and sell to other nations. But Peking would be forced to open its economic books to the rest of the world, something Communist countries have been reluctant to do. Only two Communist nations, Romania and Yugoslavia, now belong to the World Bank and the IMF. The Soviet Union was reported to have inquired about membership requirements recently. But IMF officials — who would welcome the Soviet application — say they believe one is not imminent.

Airliner lost; 11 on board

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — A Texas International airliner with 11 persons aboard disappeared in a raging thunderstorm after taking off Thursday night. A ground and air search has turned up no trace of the craft. Three of the passengers were identified by a spokesman for the Red River Army Depot near Texarkana, Tex., the plane's destination, as officers from the depot. One was flying in to take command of the installation today, the spokesman said. The airline declined to identify any of the other five passengers or the three crew members. State police and Civil Air Patrol spokesmen said there was little hope of finding the Convair turbo-prop jet before dawn if it went down in the swampy area along its 75-mile flight path. The plane left El Dorado at 8:20 p.m. CDT and was scheduled to arrive in Texarkana at 8:40 p.m. It was not heard from after it left El Dorado. Thunderstorms with high winds and lightning were reported in the area at the time. Texas International officials reported the plane overdue shortly before midnight. Bob Brewer, public information officer at Red River Army Depot, identified the three military men as Col. Arthur B. Glenn, who was to assume command of the base today; Col. Robert E. Hoppe and Col. Clayton Craft.

Police chief wins reinstatement bid
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court upheld the reinstatement today of Harold Huffman as police chief in the Village of West Mansfield in Logan County. The village appealed after the Logan County Court of Appeals reversed a common pleas court decision and said the village's council acted without authority in relieving Huffman of his duties by passing a motion Nov. 12, 1968.
